MATHER INQUEST OPENED

Mariano's Story Is Doubted After an Examination of Rock Formation at Fatal Spot.

PROVIDENCE, April 2.—A new doubt was today thrown upon the story of Antonio Mariano, who confessed to killing Willie Mather, the twelve-year-old North Providence boy, by a geological examination of the rock on which Mariano says he was climbing when a stone was dislodged, fell and killed his playmate.

The examination reveals a difference in the character of the big rock on which Mariano was climbing and that of the green-pound, blood-covered stone found beside the body, which is believed to be the instrument used to batter out the life of the Mather boy. The rock upon which the boy was climbing is lime stone, while the instrument of death is a dark trap.

The small stone, as well as the big rock on Moses Angell Hill, which formed the central scene in the confession made by Mariano, have been examined for any evidences of a recent place of fracture, but no such place was found. Scattered all about the high rock are slate rocks of varying sizes, but very few pieces of limestone, whose line of limestone there are near the big rock are very small and greatly weathered.

The result of these discoveries has led to make the police discredit that entire portion of the confession of Mariano, in which he claimed to have dislodged a piece of the ledge, causing it to fall on the head of his schoolmate below.

That the tragedy occurred near the ledge of limestone has always been the belief of the police, and they become convinced of this when young Mariano led them to the spot and re-enacted the death scene.

Coroner H. A. Fenner will today hold a formal inquest on Willie Mather's death, when it is expected that Antonio Mariano, his brother and mother, and the family of the victim, will be among the witnesses.

The search for the missing dollar watch which belonged to the Mather boy still continues, but with the same lack of success as before. Many attempts have been made to induce the Mariano boy to tell the location of this watch.

He has stuck to the final story that he told the officers on the night that he made his confession, saying that he took the watch to his sister's home on Hassan street and hid it in a small hole under the upholstery of a sofa. This was the last place that was searched, but there was no sign of the watch or the long brass chain on which the dead boy was accustomed to carry it.

A theory belief is that the watch has been disposed of in a manner that will prevent its location by the police, but that Antonio knows just where it is, and delights in leading the officers of North Providence a merry chase.

Antonio was removed from the old Sockanosset Reform School following the preliminary hearing held before Judge Hoxsie. His arrival created a sensation among the boys at the institution. All of them had ap-

Woman Crosses British Channel in an Aeroplane

Elizabeth Davies, Flying With M. Hamel, First of Her Sex to Accomplish Feat.

PARIS, April 2.—For the first time in the history of aviation, a woman crossed the English channel in an aeroplane today, when Miss Elizabeth Davies, flying as a passenger with M. Hamel, a French aviator, flew from Hendon, a London suburb, and landed at Ambleteuse, a French sailing village, six miles north of Boulogne.

Hamel an able passenger set out from the Hendon aerodrome for Paris at 9:38. At 11:15 the aeroplane had traversed the sixty-six miles of air between London and Dover and started out over the channel.

The machine was traveling at a great height and at full speed. Hamel had said before leaving Hendon that, if possible, he would make a non-stop flight to the French capital and thus establish a new record.

Weather conditions were good, but upon reaching a point nearly above Cape Grisnez an engine trouble developed and Hamel thought it safer to make a landing than to risk death by attempting to push on.

Accordingly descent was made and the aviator at once commenced repairs upon his motor. A dispatch from Ambleteuse reported Hamel as saying that as soon as the repairs were made he would push on to this city.

'High Cost of Living' in Divorce Court

This Was Husband's Excuse for Desertion, Says Wife Who Gets Decree.

Mrs. Alfreda Howe, a comely young wife of Weymouth, testified in Norfolk Divorce Court at Dedham today that the high cost of living was her husband's excuse for desertion only nine months after marriage.

Mrs. Howe was married to Clifford Howe of Brockton on March 9, 1907, at Weymouth.

"On December 7, the same year, my husband left me," said Mrs. Howe. "We were living with my mother. That day he told me he would have to leave me because he found housekeeping so expensive that he wouldn't be able to keep it up any longer."

Mrs. Howe was granted a divorce on the grounds of desertion and was awarded the custody of her four-year-old girl, Doris L. Howe.

Famous Pure Food Expert to Contribute Writings to Good Housekeeping.

Announcement was made today that Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who recently resigned his position as chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to be a contributing editor to the Good Housekeeping Magazine.

He will write on pure food, health and similar topics and will also be in charge of a bureau of foods, sanitation and health which the magazine has established at Washington.

Slight Plurality for Minimum Wage Bill

LONDON, April 2.—The total vote on ratification of the minimum wage bill as compiled up to noon today stood in favor of the bill and 101,474 against it, according to an official announcement from headquarters of the miners federation.

The Scotch miners voted to accept the minimum wage law.

The vote in South Wales up to 2 p. m. was:

For ratification, 62,093; against ratification, 31,365.

SECOND ADVANCE FOR MILL WORKERS

Thousands of operative in the cotton mills of northern New England will participate in a second advance in wages since March 11. Following the action of the mill owners in southern New England, last week, in deciding upon a second advance of 5 per cent., numerous mills, which have their offices in Boston, are again taking part.

Speech of Commander Fiske Feature of Annual Encampment in Faneuil Hall.

A memorial building in Greater Boston for the preservation of the properties of Grand Army posts was urged today at the forty-sixth annual encampment of the Massachusetts Department of the Grand Army of the Republic in Faneuil Hall. The posts in the several towns have this provision, but Boston is greatly in need of such a building. It was proposed by Post Department Commander Billings.

Department Commander Granville C. Fiske spoke to more than seven hundred comrades and said in part:

"Another march in our yearly campaign is ended, and once more we halt for roll-call and review, to find that 802 of our honored and loved comrades who were with us one year ago have answered the last roll and are camping on Fame's eternal campground.

"One by one our ranks are thinning
Here, but reciting there;
One by one bright crowns are winning,
Crowns they shall forever wear.

"Forty-six years ago our fraternal organization was formed for the protection of such of our comrades, their widows and orphans, as might need our assistance; and for forty-six years we have kept the trust and have been a mighty influence, a potent factor, towards the solidification and improvement of the American people, and are destined to go down into history with our colors flying. And though this organization will be in coming years but a memory, it will be a teacher of patriotism to the millions still unborn who are to follow us in the years to come.

"I love the flag and the Union because I am an American and fought for their preservation three long years. I love them, for they stand for the light, while other nations are groping in the dark. So, Comrades, let us stand, as long as there is one Union veteran left on this side of

MISS MERCY ILL AS CASE ENDS

CHICAGO, April 2.—Her trial for slander again Dean Marion Talbot of Chicago University halted because of local elections here, Miss Esther Mercy today collapsed under the strain of the past few weeks. Today she was under the care of physicians at her home. She may not be able to appear in court tomorrow when the case is resumed.

Only two witnesses remain to be called and it is predicted that the case will be completed by Wednesday night. According to plans of Attorney Everett Jennings for Miss Mercy only Dr. Beck and Dr. Thorek are to be put on in rebuttal. Their evidence is expected to be brief. Argument will follow. The defence has closed its case.

PROTESTS NEW HIGH SCHOOL IN BACK BAY

Alleging that the erection of the High School of Commerce in the Back Bay Fens would be detrimental to her property, Alice H. Thayer filed a bill of complaint in the United States District Court today against the City of Boston and the members of the schoolhouse commission, Charles Logue, John F. Kennedy and Charles B. Perkins. She asks for $3,000 as damages by reason of the decision to erect the high school on this site. She seeks to prevent the erection of the school on this site, which she claims is in the park system laid out by an order of December 27, 1879.

Baron Is Wounded In His Second Duel

De Saint Marie Cut on Arm When He Has New Encounter. Mrs. Tyler Morse Saw Quarrel.

NICE, April 2.—The Baron J. Meyer-ounot de Saint Marie, husband of the former Miss Elton Wall of Philidelphia, a daughter of Jason Waters, was wounded in the forearm in the second round of a duel fought with Baron Foutinillat this morning. This is the second duel that De Saint Marie has fought in four days, both affairs growing out of the incident at the Pare Imperial Country and Polo Club.

The Marquis De Montebello, the first antagonist whom De Saint Marie vanquished last Friday, attacked the Baron De Saint Marie while he was seated at a table, beating him about the head with a cane.

Infuriated women at De Saint Marie's table resented the attack, threw their tea at the Marquis, and Mrs. Tyler Morse, who was seated at an adjoining table, suffered from their bad aim.

Early this morning the two Barons met and fought with rapiers in a driving rain. In the first round De Saint Marie slipped and narrowly escaped being punctured by his antagonist's thrusts, but in the second round he did not get away so easily. Foutinillat found a weakness in his defence and wounded De Saint Marie in the forearm. This ended the duel.

10 PER CENT. OFFER BY CRAWFORD HOUSE

Judge Dodge in the United States District Court today confirmed the 10 per cent. offer made by Geodwin & Rimback, proprietors of the Crawford House, Boston, who filed a petition in bankruptcy January 11 of this year. The schedule discloses liabilities of $66,586, with nominal assets of $6,800.

TRANSMIT ELECTRIC POWER 330 MILES

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 2.—What is claimed to be a world's record in long distance electric power transmission was made here when the dynamos of a commercial plant sent a current 330 miles at sixty pulsations per second.

D. B. COOK FOUND DEAD IN DITCH

NORTH ADAMS, April 2.—The body of Dexter B. Cook, a well-to-do real estate dealer of this city, known all over the Berkshires and through the Deerfield Valley, was found in a ditch alongside the Fitchburg division railroad tracks near Zoar station, twenty miles east of here, today, under circumstances that indicate foul play.

There was a deep bruise on the man's head, sufficient to have caused death. This may have come through his being struck by a train.

But no money was found in his clothes. It is well known that Mr. Cook carried large sums of cash with him. That the man was waylaid and killed, with robbery as a motive, is feared by his widow, daughter and friends.

Mr. Cook went to Zoar last night to see Josiah Penney. He left Penney's house late to walk to Charlemont station, one mile down the track, when he was to get a train back home.

When he failed to arrive by morning Mrs. Cook and Miss Cherry Cook, her daughter, went to Shelburne Falls, thinking he might have passed the night there. At Shelburne Falls they learned of the discovery of Mr. Cook's body. The body was found by a track walker today, one-fourth mile east of Zoar station.

HALF WAY THROUGH NORTHWEST PASSAGE

SEATTLE, Wash., April 2.—The fifteen-ton gasoline schooner Teddy Bear which left Seattle in 1909 on a trading trip in the Arctic Ocean, and the captain of which, Joseph Bernard, attempted to make the first navigation of the Northwest passage from the West, got as far as Coronation Gulf, more than half the distance between Point Barrow, Alaska, and Hudson Bay. Captain Bernard then turned back and is wintering at Baily Island. He sent a letter by Eskimos to Herschell Island, which was forwarded to Seattle.

VOTES FOR ADMISSION OF GRAND TRUNK R.R.

Legislative Committee on Railroads Acts Favorably; Orders Drawing Up of an Enabling Measure.

The Legislative Committee on Railroads, in executive session today, voted unanimously in favor of reporting a bill on the petition of the Southern New England Railroad corporation, the Massachusetts subsidiary of the Grand Trunk, for authority to enter Boston.

A sub-committee was appointed by the chairman of the railroad committee (Senator Schoonmaker of Ware), with instructions to draft a bill and report it back to the full committee with their recommendations as soon as possible.

The sub-committee appointed by Senator Schoonmaker consists of Senator Schoonmaker of Ware, Senator James F. Fowers of Boston and Representatives Ellis of Newton, Wolcott of Milton and Baxeley of Uxbridge.

Vote Was Unanimous.

This is the most important development to date in the fight to bring the Grand Trunk to Boston, which was begun in the AMERICAN a year ago.

The Committee on Railroads met shortly before 9 o'clock today. After some discussion a motion was made by one of the members that the committee should be appointed by the chair to draft a general bill, to be drawn on the origina Grand Trunk petition.

The vote was unanimously in favor of such a sub-committee. Twelve members out of the fifteen on the committee were present when the vote was taken. The three absent members were Representatives Cavanagh of Everett, O'Hearn of North Cambridge and Haigis of Montague.

These three members of the committee in the poll made by the AMERICAN shortly after the presentation of the Grand Trunk's petition to the Legislature, declared that they were absolutely in favor, on general principles, of allowing the Grand Trunk to come into Boston.

To Begin Work at Once.

The action of the committee, by voting in favor of appointing a sub-committee to draft a special Grand Trunk bill, is the ordinary method of procedure taken by legislative committees in cases of important measures.

The sub-committee will get to work immediately, it is announced, and is expected to report back a bill to the full committee within a week.

In the meantime Charles F. Baxter, of counsel for the Grand Trunk, is awaiting a call from the committee for the maps and plans of the proposed route over which the Grand Trunk will come to Boston if allowed to by the Legislature.

Mr. Baxter has been ready for the committee, according to instructions given the Grand Trunk people several weeks ago. He went before the committee yesterday and informed them that the plans are ready for filing. The committee told him they were not ready at that time to receive the plans, but would let him know when they were ready.

To Broaden Railroad Laws.

The Committee on Railroads also voted unanimously in favor of a broadening of the railroad laws which will give all of the railroads in Massachusetts an easier method of extending their systems as well as to make it possible for bonafide railroads that now operating in the Commonwealth, but which desire to come in here, to do so.

The committee also voted to report an order requesting authority from the Legislature for the sub-committee to travel with a railroad expert, the latter being hired to go over the line of the Central Vermont, which is a branch of the Grand Trunk, for the purpose of finding out what the condition of the line is.

The AMERICAN was praised on all sides today when the news of the action of the Railroad Committee got into circulation. Governor Foss was one of the first to make comment on the report.

Representative Charles A. Dean of Wakefield, a member of the Committee on Railroads, who has been a staunch supparently heard of Antonio and the few that had not were enlightened soon after his commitment.

Mariano has twice been sentenced to serve terms in this school but in each case the sentence has been suspended and the boy placed on probation.

Ralph Mariano, the seventeen-year-old brother of Antonio, is held in $200 bail on the charge of interference with an officer. It is expected that the case against the older brother will be dropped if the proper information can be secured against the younger one.

ANGELA MORGAN SEES THE MARIANO BOY AS A "HERO"

By ANGELA MORGAN.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 2.—What a paradoxical situation it is that exalts to a place of heroism a thirteen-year-old boy charged with the death of his playfellow! What a significant commentary on our civilization that this lad, who by his own admission is wholly devoid of moral sense, a seeming monster of abnormal traits, should, with the signing of a warrant, leap at a bound to the very pinnacle of fame, heralded by other boys not as a creature to be shunned, but a big hero, an envied figure in the arena of the world.

ANGELA MORGAN
HATCHFIELD STUDIO
PHOTO

Antonio Mariano, at the reform school in Sockanosset, finds himself just such a figure today. Set down in the midst of the boy inmates, whose ideals of life have been formed for the most part through dime novels and tales of lurid adventure, Antonio, instead of losing caste by his disgrace, steps into the limelight as a winner of laurels long coveted and admired.

From the moment this unfortunate lad marched boldly up to take his place in the institution, where awed eyes stared at him and breathless whispers spoke of his importance, the spotlight blazed upon his depravity—not to reveal its ugliness but to transform it into glory.

For these boys, all of them, had heard of Antonio and marveled about him. They had run to the windows to see him coming, had jostled for first chance to greet him and see what he was like.

Here was a real hero.

Here was the perpetrator of an unlawful crime. No make-believe character of fiction, but a real boy, like themselves, who had actually been charged with killing another boy. Here he was, the personification in flesh and blood of the terrible, yet fascinating monsters, which heretofore only the pictured page had pictured.

Shows Remarkable Calm.

Here indeed was sensation, here was an electric shock dynamic enough to set the crowd tingling with excitement and keep them awake and stirring for many days to come.

A real hero in their very midst. The dare-devil of every petty misdeed, but of actual slaying. In the glare of this marvel, their own petty misdeeds faded into the tones of insignificance. Their own status in the world of achievement became a thing to be ashamed of.

At mealtime, when the boys gathered in the mess hall for dinner, all eyes were fixed on the self-confessed of actual life. Nothing else was thought of or talked of all afternoon. When evening came, Antonio and Antonio's story still kept all thoughts and tongues awake.

And Antonio himself—how does he take it all?

This reverence, this hero worship based on the pitiful ignorance and mistaken ideals of unfortunate companions?

Just as he has taken everything else in connection with this remarkable case, with a calmness, a bravado, unbelievable, even monstrous in its lightness so complete that one asks, in observing him, if it is possible there can exist in him one normal trait of boyhood, one single element that is human.

With every day, the baffling, unspeakably terrible qualities of this strange youth reveal themselves. Most astounding is his character, that the revelations concerning it serve only to deepen the problem of which he is the central factor.

Unmoved Through All.

Horrors which would make the average person shudder even to hear discussed, this mysterious, unnatural lad brings freely into conversation with a silliness scarcely to be credited. Seemingly, he has no conception of right and wrong. There are for him no tongues to be shunned, no astonishing brain makes no distinctions, no contrasts and treats an offensive subject quite as cheerfully as any other.

As for his own position he seems to be utterly devoid of humiliation over it, does not seem to understand its import, or if he does understand his ideals are such as to make him perfectly callous and resigned.

I shall not soon forget the picture of this lad at the hour of his arraignment. He sat in Judge Rueckert's chambers, an unkempt, shabby figure; totally indifferent to what was going on; unaware of his own disgrace, or ignoring his bold black eyes looking straight into the face of any one who stared at him.

He sat in an armchair, with his cap held calmly in his hands, waiting while in an adjoining room the warrant was being signed.

He wore dark blue knickerbockers, a gray sweater bordered with blue, a dark coat of mixed tweed, a light shirt with a standing collar, minus a tie. His shoes and stockings were black and bore evidences of much wear.

Mother Protests Innocence.

At last the warrant was brought in and Antonio was summoned before the judge to hear it. As he stood by the table where the document lay he showed no sign of fear or misgiving. The hands that held his cap did not even tremble.

His manner was calm as that of a boy waiting for instructions from his teacher at school.

"Antonio," Judge Rueckert said to him, gravely and deliberately, "do you know what this means?" The boy stared, then shook his head.

"Antonio, did you kill Willie Mather?"

How I Made My Hair Grow

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy as it was impossible to do it up so it would stay properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious, and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances as I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of experiments had finally found a simple prescription which I am pleased to say is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it and obtained results that often astonish me. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair that rare brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition, it also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months, and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

7oz Rum, 6 oz. Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavoris, 1 ounce; 2 oz. Bay Rum. Mix well and add 4 drachms of Tr-Kalon Perfume, which makes perfectly the other ingredients. This lotion is not necessary.

Apply night and morning and rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Go to your druggist and ask for an eight ounce bottle containing 45 grains of Menthol Crystals, and a two-ounce bottle of Bay Rum. Mix the ingredients yourself at your own home, and then get a bottle of Lavoris and a bottle of Tr-Kalon Perfume (or Tr-Kalon de Lavoris de Compose) and add the Tr-Kalon Perfume to the mixture a half hour and it is ready for use.

Rixon-Jones Drug Stores, the well-known and popular druggists of Boston, have put this formula for many of their patrons and state that the satisfaction they have given is such that they have found it necessary to make special preparations to fill the prescription promptly and carefully.

HARVARD AUTO MAN FINED $25

Junius Spencer Morgan, Jr., a rich Harvard sophomore, a nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, was today fined $25 in the Cambridge District Court for refusing to stop his automobile, going at a high rate of speed, when he was ordered to do so by a policeman.

Patrolman Joseph Kelley, the policeman who made the charge against the student, testified that young Morgan paid no attention to him but kept going at his fast clip.

This case follows fast upon the heels of the arrest of Morgan Belmont, the millionaire son of the late O. H. P. Belmont of New York, also a Harvard student. Young Belmont ran down Mrs. Martha Zapolski and he did not stop even to see what happened to the woman. Later he sent some one to inquire about it.

Policeman's Story.

Belmont lost his automobile license, was fined $100 by Judge Almy and is reported to have settled with the woman for her injuries by paying her $1,000 damages.

The offence charged against Morgan took place on Saturday afternoon, March 16. He was brought into court today. He was represented by a lawyer, and when Judge Almy fined him $25 he appealed the case and was held in $100 bonds for the Superior Court, which convenes in East Cambridge in June—just before Harvard commencement.

Kelley, the policeman, made this statement to the court:

"I belong to the Central Square police station, Cambridgeport, and am assigned to the Cambridge end of the Harvard bridge. On the afternoon of Saturday, March 16, Morgan came over the bridge into Cambridge at a fast clip and I waved my hand at him to stop.

"Morgan paid no attention to the signal."

Ignored Police Signal.

Then Morgan took the stand. He wore a gray suit and tan shoes. He carried a gray cap in his hand.

"I saw the policeman," said Morgan, "but I did not see the signal that the policeman said he made for me to stop. If I had seen the signal I would have stopped.

"This is my first offence, Your Honor. I have been running a machine only three months."

"I am very sorry," said Judge Almy, "but I shall have to find you guilty and I impose a fine of $25."

The arrest of the two rich New York students signalizes a crusade by the police and the State Highway Commission against speeding automobiles by Harvard students and others.

"We're after them," announced Chief Frederick B. Allen of the Cambridge police today.

"From my experience with Harvard students handling automobiles," said he, "I will say that most of them are all right. There are a few, however, who seem to have an utter disregard of the law. These few irresponsibles give a bad name to the others and to the college."

$5,000 FOR MISSIONS.

WINSTED, Ct., April 2.—By the death of Sarah A. Russell, widow of the late Henry A. Russell, the $5,000 estate of Mr. Russell reverts equally to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of Riston and the Congregational Home Missionary Society and the American Missionary Association of New York.

Town Reported Swept Away by Mississippi River

Twenty-Foot Wall of Water Sweeps Away Levees; Loss of Life Is Feared; Many Places Flooded.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 2.—New Madrid, Mo., has been swept away by the waters of the Mississippi at Johnstown, Pa., was destroyed, according to a report reaching here today. The levee guarding the town went out at daylight and a swirling wall of water twenty feet deep swept through the streets. Reports here indicate there was a heavy loss of life.

At Memphis more than five thousand persons were made homeless today by the breaks in the levees protecting North Memphis, Tenn., from the Mississippi. A hundred factories are out of commission, 10,000 are idle and damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars has been done.

Water stands eight to fifteen feet deep. Railroad tracks are submerged. One of the heaviest rains in years fell last night. Mayor E. H. Crump, called from his residence at midnight, superintended saving of a hundred families caught in the rapid rise.

Many persons climbed to the second stories of their homes, and those living in bungalows had to pass the night on the roofs.

The flood this afternoon threatens to inundate the pumping stations and cut off the city supply of water. Train service between Memphis and Paducah and Nashville was suspended at noon. Railroad tracks are under three feet of water. The Southern railroad will annul New York service tonight. The gas plant is out of service and a great part of the city is without fuel or light.

At Jackson, Miss., the water supply was shut off by the floods. Back water from creeks in the outskirts of Jackson have inundated the pumping stations. The situation is critical. An epidemic of sickness is feared as the only source of drinking water comes from wells in the flood-swept sections.

STRIKERS SEEK TO FREE WOMAN

LOWELL, April 2.—Steps were taken at the strike committee meeting in I. W. W. headquarters today in behalf of Mrs. Mary Kokoski, whose health is poor, and who is in jail in default of money to pay a fine of $45 for causing a disturbance at the Tremont and Suffolk mills. A committee of one man and two women was appointed by William E. Trautmon, who presided at the meeting, to wait on Judge Putnam and intercede for the woman.

Dr. Demopoulous, who was at the meeting, said he was interested in Mrs. Kokoski's case, felt deep sympathy for her and would like to serve on the committee.

"I will argue to Judge Putnam," he said, "that humanity demands that Mrs. Kokoski be set free."

Frank Goldman, attorney, is attending the legal end of the case.

The strikers were reported to be standing firm and maintaining vigilant picketing.

Plans were made for a demonstration in front of the Hamilton Mills this afternoon. A parade will be formed there and strikers will march to the South Common, where addresses will be made. Sixteen mule spinners announced today they will return to work in the Hamilton Mills tomorrow morning. They said they have no grievance.

MOST OF STRIKING PAINTERS OBTAIN ADVANCE IN WAGES

Only four hundred men were idle in the Boston and Brookline districts today as a result of the big painters' strike started yesterday, the rest of the 1,650 men having returned to work under settlements that give them the higher wage-rate demanded by their union.

Official reports by officers of the Painters' District Council today at No. 42 Pleasant street, show nearly all the shop-five "fair" master painters in the district have settled with their men. Negotiations now on are expected to settle the strike at three other shops today. In the event of peace with these five employers, falling, the strike leaders asserted a country-wide strike will be called on work attempted by them, the firms being big contractors with contracts all through the United States.

DOUBT KNABE MURDER CONFESSION

DR. HELENE KNABE, MYSTERIOUSLY MURDERED

Indianapolis Police Place No Belief in the Story of Seth Nichols, Formerly of the Navy, That He Killed Woman Doctor.

Sailor, at Portsmouth, N. H., However, Repeats His Story, Insisting That the Startling statements Made by Him are Absolutely True.

Pathetic Story Behind the Confession of Man Under Arrest at Portsmouth, Self-Accused of Terrible Crime.

Was Married to a Young Mill Girl of Pawtucket Shortly After Knabe Murder. Many Stormy Scenes Ensued Between Them.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 2.—The police here give little credence to the confession made by Seth Nichols, a sailor of the United States ship Dixie at Portsmouth, N. H., that he killed Dr. Helen Knabe here last year at the instigation of another person who paid him $1,500 to commit the crime.

Mrs. Grace Blackman of No. 213 East avenue, a sister of Nichols, said today that she does not believe her brother committed the crime.

"Seth probably read about the murder and his head has been turned by it, until he thinks he can get some notoriety in this way," said Mrs. Blackman. "Or maybe he wants the police to send him back to Indianapolis."

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 2.—Behind the confession of Seth Thomas Nichols, who is under arrest here on the murder of Dr. Helene Knabe of Indianapolis, comes to light the pathetic story of a young Pawtucket (R. I.) mill girl who became the bride of Nichols a week following the murder and who lived but three months afterwards.

The marriage was followed by many stormy scenes between them, according to Nichols. The girl was only seventeen years old. Nichols met her at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Lyons, No. 367A Tremont stret, Boston. Nichols says that Mrs. Lyons still lives at the above address and can corroborate his statement.

After a few short months of married life they separated. The girl was taken sick with pneumonia, and the following March she died. Since that time Nichols has been wandering around the country.

Today, at the county police station, he made this statement:

"My story is absolutely true; I am not faking. I have no object in lying. I did the job and received the $1,500."

"Kept Me Under Drugs."

"I did not leave Indianapolis for three days after the murder and I think that Knight kept me under drugs.

"I stayed in his room, which I remember being located in Wonderland Park, North Washington street. I met him in the Washington Skating Rink in Indianapolis, where I first became acquainted with him.

"Later, while serving on the U. S. S. Dixie, I met him at the New York Y. M. C. A.

"I was half drunk when he said to me, 'Do you want to do a job?'

"I said, 'yes, what is it?'

"Knight replied, 'I want to get rid of a woman and I want you to do it. I will pay you $15,000.'

"I thought it over for a while and my mind not being right I told him yes.

"We both went back to Indianapolis and I did the job."

"After we got into the house—Knight seemed to have it all fixed so that we could get in—we had to go from room to room till we found the one in which the woman was.

"Knight was right there with me. When we found her, asleep, Knight passed me a light, sharp knife, like a razor, but I don't think it was a razor.

"Then the woman woke up and yelled. Before she could yell more than once or twice I had opened her throat. She struggled some, and had kicked off most of the bed clothes before she finally became quiet.

"I did not jump Indianapolis until the next day. I did not know who the woman was till I saw in the papers that the murder had been committed and that the police were after a clew. Then I jumped. And I have been jumping ever since, from place to place, expecting every moment to be pinched and brought up for it."

WALKED AS WELL AS THE DOCTOR

Cure of a Case of Rheumatism That Did Not Yield to Ordinary Remedies.

There are many remedies for rheumatism. Most of them are considered successful if they relieve the pain and stiffness. That means a temporary suppression of the symptoms while the disease remains in the blood to appear again on the next rainy day.

In rheumatism the blood becomes thin. Until it is made rich and red again the rheumatism will prevail. Strengthen the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and it will throw off the rheumatic poison and the disease is cured.

Mrs. C. G. Dean, of No. 916 Elm street, Quincy, Ill., says: "A few years ago I was greatly afflicted with rheumatism. The trouble came on in the fall. I consulted our family doctor and on my way home could hardly push one foot ahead of the other. The next morning I was worse and in great pain. All at once something seemed to give away in my back on the right side and I was bent nearly double. I could not straighten up and was suffering intense pain. For six weeks the doctor called nearly every day but did not cure me. I had spells of nervousness, which nearly drove me mad. If I would lie down on the bed, I could not get up unless lifted and placed on my feet. So for six weeks I sat up all night in my chair and during the day moved about as well as I could. I could hardly walk and when I did it was very slowly and if I took a quick step the pain would catch me and it seemed as though I would fall. I slept but little and could eat practically nothing. One day I told the doctor that he need not call on me any longer and then sent for a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and gave them a good trial. Some time later the doctor called and could not believe his eyes for I walked to the door as straight as he did and was well enough to do my housework. He said my cure was a wonderful thing. I have been in good health since."

A new edition of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Reason and Belief

¶ In a small city, not many miles from Boston, live two brothers whose families and opportunities have been singularly alike. Each has been blessed with a devoted wife and five children, and all have enjoyed continuous good health.

(Each had five children)

¶ Life's simile has gone farther with them, as their employment has been the same, giving them equal returns in wages, which with like habits of industry and sobriety has set before them an equal measure of opportunity.

¶ These brothers began life in the city referred to, about thirty years ago, and while the essential circumstances of their lives have been practically identical, the relation of thrift to future had an early conception in the plans of one, while it remained a negligible quantity with the other.

¶ Not that the latter disregarded or failed to practice economy in the household; on the contrary the good wife made everything go as far as the wife of the former and checked waste at every point within the home, but this economy, while efficacious, was not sufficient; it was economy only in conservation, while that of the other brother was practiced both in provision and conservation, his economies being well under way and producing results when his brother's began.

(He saved a little each week)

¶ While his brother was able to live comfortably, he lived equally as well and laid aside a sum each week until he had enough to buy a small piece of land upon which he built a home. In time he found the money he had saved was working for him, increasing his savings. Gradually he added more land and more houses, and now, after thirty years of labor at moderate wages, he is able to retire and spend the remainder his days in ease and comfort. His brother is still toiling and will as long as he is physically fit to do so, no nearer to a competency than he was thirty years ago.

¶ And what, you may ask, was the differences in the practices of these men, so nearly alike in the essential and generalities of life and yet so widely apart in circumstances as they near its close?

¶ Simply the difference between the Cash and the Credit System.

¶ One reasoned on the cash basis, the other believed in the credit system.

¶ The one had reasoned that the ultimate end of every business transaction was money, that the inspiration of trade, the great impelling force to all its activities was Cash, that the one thing that could command at all times the advantages of trade was Cash. That when merchandise was thrown upon the market through business reverses or unseasonable weather, the man who could buy it best was the man who bought it for cash. Consequently he could and would, whether merchant or layman, buy best who bought for cash. And so he bought at the cash stores.

(He built himself a home)

¶ The other believed that the merchant could buy and sell on credit and give him equal advantages, that the extensive and costly bookkeeping system, the salaries of collectors and adjusters, the long wait between sale and payment with interest charges running, and the inevitable loss through bad credits could be borne by the merchant without affecting the cost of his purchases. That these positive burdens of a credit store were liquidated in some manner outside of the selling prices of their merchandise. And believing all these things he bought on credit.

¶ The results the reader already knows, and they are results not especially confined to the subjects of the narrative, but are common among our friends and acquaintances. The lives of the two brothers are only useful to the purpose of this story because they accentuate with peculiar force the advantages in the cash over the credit system of buying.

(Spending his days in ease)

¶ Right here in Boston we have one of the leading Cash Stores of the world. It is doing for hundreds what the cash stores did for the prosperous brother of the story; it is saving a large percentage on the cost of living to all who take advantage of its offerings. If you go there to shop you will, from one year's end to the other, find the staple lines of merchandise that you find in all good stores at prices as low as they can be sold anywhere and guaranteed. You will receive the benefits of a Cash System which will save you money all the time.

¶ You may shop there for your entire household and save yourself the exhausting labor of traveling over the entire city to procure bargains.

¶ The Cash System guarantees you the best merchandise at the lowest prices. And the time you save by shopping there affords opportunity for a part of the day spent at the theatre, making calls, or an early return home with your shopping well and early done, with time and money saved.

¶ The next time you come to town go directly to ¶ Houghton & Dutton's.

¶ At the corner of Beacon and Tremont Sts., one block from Park St.; one block from Scollay Square; one block from Milk St. Station Washington St. Subway (up School St.). It is convenient to all points.

¶ Do your entire day's shopping there; when you get home look over your purchases; count the cost; compare them if possible with similar purchases made at other times and places; you will appreciate the time and money saved and you will be happy and go again.

MAINE TO PROBE SHERIFF'S ACTS

AUGUSTA, April 2.—By unanimous vote both branches of the Maine Legislature today resolved to investigate the case of High Sheriff Charles O. Emery of York County, who is charged with bribing and offering a bribe to County Attorney Asa A. Richardson to be lenient with rum sellers. This action followed the reading of a message from Governor Plaisted recommending an investigation.

It was feared that an order passed at the last session a fortnight ago, stipulating that only the four matters defined would be taken up at today's session, might interfere with the Governor's request to probe the York County liquor graft affair.

However, the House and Senate felt that the circumstances warranted it, and by their united consent, C. C. Harvey, clerk of the house of Representatives, was authorized to summon witnesses from Biddeford, Sanford, Kennebunk and other points in York county.

High Sheriff Emery, who is a Democrat and serving his third term, was arrested last Tuesday and at a hearing before Trial Justice Harold H. Bourne in the Town Hall at Kennebunk, probable cause was found to bind him over in $10,000 for the May term of the York County Grand Jury.

Independent Inquiry.

The legislative inquiry is independent of the court prosecution. It will begin at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the House chamber.

The message in part was as follows:

"During the past week serious charges of official corruption have been made against Sheriff Charles O. Emery of York county. Asa A. Richardson, the made complaint that Sheriff Emery attempted to bribe him in the interest of certain violators of the law, and complaints that at a later date Sheriff Emery actually did pay to him $100 in accordance with an agreement.

Grave Charges.

"Charges of so grave a nature preferred by one public official against another cannot be lightly passed over. If true, it is the imperative duty of the Legislature to request the removal of the guilty person from office; if false, their falsity should be promptly shown.

"Although judicial proceedings have been begun in the Emery case, it is appropriate that the Legislature should take immediate cognizance of the matter. Courts of justice necessarily move slowly. Cases of importance almost invariably reach the law courts before being finally decided. The present case may not be ended during the year, and for a sheriff to continue to exercise his authority and to perform the duties of his office for several months during which the public tribunal has rendered a decision as to his guilt or innocence concerning so serious an offence as bribing a county attorney, presents a condition which cannot be tolerated.

"I have instructed the Attorney-general to appear before you representing the State, and I have no doubt but that you will make such further reasonable arrangements as may be necessary to secure the accused a fair and impartial hearing."

PATROLMAN LISTING VOTERS IS INJURED

During the annual police listing of voters in Boston this week, one accident has resulted. Patrolman Jeremiah Mahoney of the Hanover street station while taking names in the house at No. 46 Cheever street, North End, fell from the third to the second floor and sustained injuries to his left leg which will probably incapacitate him for several months. More than 110 policemen are engaged in the work each day. The listing monthly now for 30 days under favorable weather conditions. The annexation of Hyde Park, which is listed for the first time this year by the Boston police, means an addition of 5,000 names.

CARL R. HEMMANN, HELD FOR SHOOTING THREE IN MONTREAL

WIFE AIDS MAN WHO SHOT THREE

Mrs. Emily Hemmann of No. 27 Hampstead road today is eagerly awaiting the outcome of the charges against her son, Carl R. Hemmann, who is held by the Montreal police following his shooting of three men who invaded his room in a hotel, awaiting the result of their wounds, which, it is said, will prove fatal for two of them. Mrs. Hemmann, white-haired and bent, was deeply touched when she learned that her son had refused to reveal his identity because he didn't want her to know of his predicament. Nevertheless, when she read that a "Carl Hammond" had shot three men she was sure that he was her son.

Mr. Hemmann's wife, who has been living with her mother-in-law on Hampstead road, is with her husband in Montreal. She is confident that her husband didn't shoot until forced to and is sure that he will be freed. She had planned to meet her husband in New York, but when she reached there she found a telegram awaiting her telling her to go to Montreal at once.

Hemmann is now held on a charge of assault and he has placed a counter charge against Edgar and Herbert, the two men who attacked him.

An attempt is being made today to have Hemmann released on bail, but Crown Prosecutor Walsh is strongly opposed to this and has had the charge changed to aggravated assault.

"There is no reason why this man, simply because he is an American," said the prosecuting, "should not be compelled to await the investigation like any Canadian prisoner."

Edgar and Herbert Chapman, the physicians say, will die as a result of their wounds. Arthur is today resting comfortably.

ALDRICH WILL FIGHT ON AGAIN

Henry A. Aldrich of Brookline testified in the Supreme Judicial Court today that his step-mother, Mrs. Susan Freeman Aldrich of Brookline, used undue influence to induce her husband, the late Charles T. Aldrich of Millbury and Ashland, to leave her more than half his property and cut off his three sons with $5 apiece.

The Aldrich will was before the Probate Court a year ago on a contest entered by Henry A. Aldrich and his two brothers, Charles T. Aldrich, Jr., and Louis H. Aldrich, both of Cincinnati. The will was allowed by Judge George. Appeal was made to the Supreme Court. The appeal is being heard before Chief Justice Rugg and jury.

Alice M. Aldrich, sister of the three contestants, joined with them in the probate fight on the question of determining what became of her father's property, as she was left his twelfths of his estate. It was claimed by the daughter and three sons that the latter left $500,000. The widow maintained the estate was but $3,000. At the probate hearing the widow admitted the testator had given her large amounts in bonds.

The sons declare there was more than one will, also that the widow procured transfer of a large block of property to herself shortly before her husband died. Charles T. Aldrich was a rich woolen manufacturer, who died in 1907. Six years before he had married Miss Susan Freeman of Cambridge, a seamstress who had done sewing at times for the first Mrs. Aldrich.

LITTLEFIELD HEIRS WITHDRAW APPEAL

Eighteen cousins and heirs-at-law to Herbert L. Littlefield of the Copley Square Hotel, who committed suicide in the Charles River Basin, May, 1910, withdrew their appeal today, when the case came up before Chief Justice Rugg and a jury in the Supreme Judicial Court. They contested the will on the grounds of insanity. He left his estate of $20,000 to George F. Kimball, the assistant clerk of the Superior Court, and his brother, Allen Kimball, who were sons of an old friend of Mr. Littlefield's.

RULING IN CUSHING SUIT IS DELAYED

NEWPORT, R. I., April 2.—The case against Grafton D. Cushing of Boston by Henry Clews, who brings action to restrain Cushing from erecting a fence, the boundary line between the estates being in dispute, has been taken under advisement by Judge Lee of the Superior Court. The testimony was entirely of depositions. A circular driveway to the Clews residence comes directly on the disputed territory, and if the fence were erected by Mr. Cushing it would necessitate the abandonment of this.

ADAMS SQUARE

WOMAN MUST GIVE UP STOCK OR FACE CONTEMPT CHARGE

Mrs. Alexandrina Green of Fitchburg was today ordered by Judge Sheldon in the Supreme Court to transfer thirty shares of Anaconda Copper Mining stock worth about $1,200, to Frank T. Hammond, receiver of Sederquist, Barry & Co., and threatened with contempt proceedings unless she appears in court forwith and authorizes the transfer.

Mrs. Green pledged her thirty shares of Anaconda Copper stock with Sederquist, Barry & Co. for a margin account. That firm borrowed $52,000 on the mining and other securities from the American Trust Company and later failed. The American Trust Company sold most of the collateral pledged, deducted its own claim and had a balance of $5,000 or $6,000. The court appointed Mr. Hammond receiver and directed all pleaders to assign their interest to the receiver.

Mrs. Green was not in court today to answer to the petition to have her adjudged in contempt. Judge Sheldon continued the case until Friday to give her another chance.

POSSE LOCATES BANDIT ALLEN

BILLSVILLE, Va., April 2.—Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the Allen gang outlaws, were located at Volunteer Gap, thirteen miles from here, shortly after 9 o'clock today. The posse trailing the two men sent a message here asking for reinforcements and every available man set out for the scene.

The reinforcements were led by Sergeant White and Corporal Hartigan of the State militia, who have been on guard over every prisoner taken here.

Ralph Gray, who lives in the Piney Gap section, reported that the two outlaws appeared near his home yesterday. Gray knows the Allens well, and his clue is considered reliable. It is believed from Gray's information the men are moving back and forth between two boxes of food supply about ten miles apart.

ALSOP CUTS OFF HIS GIRL BRIDE?

Dispatches from Pittsburg today raise the question whether Edward B. Alsop, the octogenarian multimillionaire of Pittsburg and Washington, intends to cut off his girl bride, Mrs. Effie Pope Hill Alsop, in favor of his two sons, Harold P. U. Alsop and Edward H. Alsop, who are now in Harvard.

Mr. Alsop's attorney has just filed a deed transferring to the boys nearly all the father's Pittsburg real estate, amounting to over $3,000,000.

Rumor of an estrangement between the aged bridegroom and his bride of less than two months is given color by this transfer of property to the sons.

On the other hand, the Alsop boys have been frankly admiring their pretty stepmother. The boys went to New York for the wedding on February 15. On their return, they were enthusiastic about their new "mamma."

"She's a peacherina," said "Hal" Alsop, the elder brother. Then he added with a laugh: "If pop don't keep his eyes open mamma and I will elope."

Edward H. Alsop, the youngest son, is a freshman, and lives in Claverly Hall. Harold, the elder, is a junior, and lives in equally luxurious quarters in Westmorley Hall. Both dormitories are on the famous Harvard College "Gold Coast."

The date of the deed makes it possible that the transfer was arranged with a sole view to protecting the boys' interests, in view of the second marriage. The deed is dated February 4, 1912, eleven days before the marriage.

Twelve Driven Out by Roxbury Fire

Twelve persons were driven, scantily clad, into the rain early today by a fire which started from some unknown cause on the third floor of the dwelling house at No. 21 Hollander street, Elm Hill district of Roxbury.

The blaze originated in the kitchen of the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Collins, who owns the building. It worked its way through the walls up to the roof.

Mrs. Collins was awakened by the odor of smoke. She found that the flames were making rapid headway and aroused the members of her family. One of her sons ran out and rang the fire alarm. While they were leaving the house the Collinses awakened the occupants of the first and second floors.

When the firemen arrived the flames had burst through the roof, but did not make much progress, owing to the heavy rainfall.

It was necessary to tear down part of the wall to get at the blaze. After a half hour fight, the flames were extinguished and the occupants were enabled to return to their apartments. The damage is estimated at $200.

PRISONERS ESCAPE COURT IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 2.—Half-a-dozen prisoners, charged with murder, burglary and other offences, escaped from the prisoners' cage in Judge Taylor's courtroom in the new Municipal Court building shortly before noon today. The prisoners made their escape through a space used for ventilation. Among those who escaped were "Lefty" Leimann, Thomas Conway, William Harrington and Joe Cavanaugh, charged with burglary; John Kelly, charged with murder, and another prisoner whose name was not on the record.

LOTS OF SOFT, FLUFFY, LUSTROUS HAIR AND NEVER ANY DANDRUFF

You can double the beauty of your hair in ten minutes with a little Danderine.

When you see a head of heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, you can at once conclude that this man or woman is using Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately destroys and dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp, the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate, but get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25-cent bottle will truly amaze you.

These new Remington models supply visible writing under new conditions—without loss of efficiency.

To realize what this means—the combination of Remington strength with visible writing—note the type bars. Note them specially. See how they are hung in a double row. This gives room for the broad pivot bearings. Note the bar itself, the strong, rigid bar, the Remington bar you have always known, made from a steel drop forging. Compare this bar with the ordinary thin bar, stamped out of sheet steel, and you will understand one reason why the very name "Remington" stands for Strength and Reliability in a Typewriter.

TWO VICTIMS OF 'DEAD MAN' GAME

Two Somerville families are victims of an alleged swindle known to the police as the "dead man's game," for which Lucius P. Wilson was arraigned in a New York police court today.

The arrest of Wilson and the exposure of the alleged swindle in New York came at the same time that the Somerville police and the postal inspectors of Boston Postal District were investigating the Somerville end of the matter.

The Somerville families, which paid $5 apiece to the New York operator, are those of the late Thomas Milmore of No. 16 Beacon street and of the late Charles T. Fyrett of No. 82 Willow street.

A day or two after the death notices for Mr. Milmore and Mr. Fyrett were published, and while their bodies were still in the house, a long, white envelope was brought to each house by the American Express Company. The envelope was addressed to the dead man in each case, and was also endorsed: "Valuable Papers. C. O. D. $5."

The relatives, supposing the envelopes did contain valuable papers, paid $5 in each case. They found the envelopes contained each a certificate for five shares of stock in the Dominion Porcupine Mines, Ltd., with a face value of $5 for the five shares. No such stock as Dominion Porcupine is listed on Boston or New York exchanges.

CORPORAL KILLED BY GUN EXPLOSION AT FORT GREBLE

FORT GREBLE, Newport, April 2.—Corporal William W. Lee of the 109th Company, Coast Artillery, was killed here today when the three-inch breech block of the reveille gun exploded at the sunrise salute. The charge was of smokeless powder mixed with black powder. One piece of metal from the breech block tore away part of Lee's head. Another piece hit him in the left shoulder. Either one of these blows would have killed him.

Lee enlisted as a private at Fort Greble four years ago, and had been a corporal about a year. He was 21 years old, and leaves a wife with a two-week old baby at Jamestown. His parents are dead, but it was learned that he had a relative at Mineola, Long Island, named A. B. Mitchell, who has been notified.

ITALIAN BLOCKADE OF RED SEA; BRITISH STEAMSHIP HELD

PERIM, Red Sea, April 2.—The captain of the Italian cruiser Piemonte, one of the squadron of Italian war vessels which has been cruising in the Red Sea since the beginning of the war between Italy and Turkey, today proclaimed a blockade of the ports of Lobeia of Salif, on the Yemen coast of the Red Sea, and also of Kamaran Island, the cable station which connects various cities on the Arabian shore with Egypt. The Italian war vessel has several times exchanged shots between Kamaran and the Arabian main land. The British steamer Woodcock has been arrested by the Italians in the vicinity of Lobeia, because she was transporting contraband.

MRS. PATTON, LYNN, TERRIBLY BURNED AT HER GAS STOVE

Mrs. Fred Patton was terribly burned in the kitchen of her home, No. 20 Eutaw avenue, Lynn, today. She was taken to the Lynn Hospital, where her case was so serious that it was entered on the "dangerous" list.

Mrs. Patton turned one of the cocks on the gas stove to extinguish the flame. Just as the flame died out it flared up and ignited her apron.

The apron blazed up in a flash, setting fire to Mrs. Patton's dress. The woman screamed and tore at her burning dress, but was unable to get the garment off before her underclothing had become ignited.

Neighbors ran in and smothered the flames, but not before the woman was burned on head, face and body. Mrs. Patton is forty years old.

$15,000 LAXTON AWARD STANDS

The verdict of $15,000 damages awarded to Mrs. Sarah I. Laxton, formerly of Lynn, against Mrs. Lillian O. Hay three years ago for alienation of the affections of Dr. John R. Laxton of Lynn and Boston was confirmed by the Supreme Judicial Court today. At the trial the jury's verdict was a surprise. Mrs. Laxton sued for only $10,000. The jury awarded her $5,000 more than that. Mrs. Hay's appeal was based on the claim the verdict was excessive, as it was in excess of what the plaintiff asked.

CLOTHES OFTEN HELP A MAN TO SUCCESS, YES

The Henry Siegel Co. Are Making It Easy for Men to Wear Good Clothes at a Modest Pull on the Pocketbook. "Siegel Standard" Clothes Have "Caught On."

TOMORROW—MEN'S DAY—BEFORE EASTER

BOSTON, April 2.—Every man is thinking of Easter, only a few days off, and naturally he's thinking of his clothes. Quite a problem, too. Particularly if he's a married man. As this is an advertisement we will come to the point at once. Our subject is "Siegel Standard" clothes for Men, introduced but a few days ago, and yet the topic among men in many parts of the city. Rather strange, you'll say, what is there new or so attractive about these clothes that people should talk about them, especially in Boston, where all kinds of clothes are offered, from the very highest to the very lowest.

That's the phenomenal part of it. First of all, the "Siegel Standard" label on a garment guarantees all wool, or pure worsted fabrics—fast colored—superior quality linings and trimmings—a further guarantees styles up to the hour and journeyman hand tailoring to the very buttonholes.

The Price is $16.50 (Sixteen-fifty)

The range of fabrics comprises pure worsteds, in grays and browns and tans and fancy mixtures. Price the same, $16.50 (Sixteen-fifty). Velour finished Cassimeres, showing on solid grounds the new cardinal and light blue hairlines, also the worsteds described heretofore are SILK-LINED, and the price is the same, $16.50 (Sixteen-fifty). Navy blue serges and black velour Thibets, conservative mixtures that will appeal to the most careful dresser are shown at $16.50.

No matter whether you are tall, short, slim or stout, whether you have the form of Adonis or just the ordinary stature of the average bustling American, we'll fit you. And should any alterations be necessary, they are made FREE OF CHARGE; you pay no more than $16.50 (Sixteen-fifty) today—tomorrow—next week—next month—next year. "Siegel Standard" has come as the real standard in clothing, and the label further guarantees that your purchase is not a closed transaction unless

You Are More Than Satisfied.

Tomorrow—Men's Day—Wednesday before Easter, is a good day for you to get acquainted with the splendid Men's Store the Henry Siegel Company are establishing on their Third Floor, by giving more value for your dollar than any other Men's Store will or can give. Convince yourself by going there tomorrow. In addition to the great economy (as you are bound to save dollars, no matter what clothes you buy), you will find it the pleasantest Men's Store in the city! Daylight—you can't make a mistake in the colors; plenty of mirrors, courteous salesmen, splendid range of styles, and, remember, you are bound to get satisfaction. It is the absolute instruction of the HENRY SIEGEL COMPANY to every manager and buyer in their organization to see to it that YOU get satisfaction, no matter what you purchase. Please put this on your "memorandum book." Wednesday, April 3rd. Henry Siegel Company, Men's Store, Third Floor; take elevator Essex Street Side, or Escalator.

Miss McDannell Wins in "Prince and Pauper"

Actress Plays Delightfully in a Whimsical Role

DRAMATIZATION OF MARK TWAIN'S STORY CHARMS AT CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

"The Prince and the Pauper"—you would have hard work finding a better or more interesting sounding title for a play and as for the play itself—well, you just know that Cinderella and all the other impossible fairy plays were never in it with this, for the plot is not impossible and while it's being worked out so delightfully as it is at the Castle Square Theatre this week by Miss Henrietta McDannell, Mr. Craig and the various members of the Castle Square Company who support them, you can fairly see the eager eyes pop right out of the kiddies' heads as they follow so closely every move.

It seemed that every child in Boston must have been lured to the Castle Square Theatre yesterday afternoon, where they sat as quiet as mice and well nigh breathless while the daring young Prince in the beggar's rags insisted upon his proper dues till even his supposed mother proclaimed him mad, and the poor beggar, who, in the mixup, was left in the castle, tried his best to be a King, but did so wish that he could go off in some corner of the garden and eat a piece of bread and cheese all alone, instead of being surrounded at his sumptuous meals and waited upon by innumerable servants.

Prince Meets the Beggar.

How did it all happen, this mix up? I'll tell you. There were no fairies, but there was a Prince; but the Prince was only twelve years old, and he had the genuine heart of a boy. One day he heard that there was a poor beggar boy at the castle gates, who just wanted to get a glimpse of His Highness.

The guard had roughly sent him away when the young Prince heard of it and demanded the beggar be sent to his private apartment.

There, in the spirit of mischief, the boys, who were so much alike that they themselves noted instantly the resemblance, traded clothes.

They looked at themselves in the mirror. They could hardly tell the difference. The Prince ventured down to the Throne room in the beggar's rags. He met the guard there who had first ordered the beggar from the castle. The guard, thinking him to be the beggar, ordered him away. The young Prince told him who he really was but the guard declared that his head had been turned, and threw him out of the Castle.

Then things went from bad to worse. The beggar arrayed in the Prince's clothes was left in the castle and tried to tell them that he really was not the Prince. But so strongly did he resemble the Prince that none believed his story and all pronounced him crazy.

The Prince, in the beggar's clothes, was found by the beggar's people and when he tried to tell them that he didn't know them but was the Prince they declared him insane.

He declared to a crowd of boys on the street that he was a Prince. They laughed at him and were about to carry him off when Mr. Craig as Miles Hendon, a soldier of fortune, appeared and took the boy with him.

To him also the Prince declared his identity but he also laughed at the boy but decided to humor him, so became his faithful attendant.

To make a long story short, the King dies and the young Prince is declared King. They still think his mind unbalanced, but hope for his recovery. The Prince, as the beggar, hears of the King's death and demands more respect and homage than ever, but brings down upon his head only more ridicule.

He is finally lured from the home of his benefactor, who seeks to find him, and at last discovers him badly injured in the loft of a camp of thieves. He is saved, but he and his companion are in much danger until the arrival of the latter's soldiers.

In the meantime things are not going so smoothly with the young beggar at the palace either and he declares it "pretty hard work being a King." One day, while seated on the throne, he hears that a poor man is being taken to be killed. He orders that he be shown in and that he be allowed to hear his story.

The man, who was one of his father's band of thieves, comes, tells his story and receives clemency. Te then tells the Prince (the beggar) that there is also a woman whom he would have him save—that she is innocent, etc.

The beggar-Prince asks that she be shown in, and when she enters he finds it is his mother. He rushes into her arms and the story is unfolded. The beggar is then found and brought to the castle. He is recognized as the real Prince and everybody is happy.

Stars in the Show.

The play is the dramatic version of Mark Twain't popular romance, and the resemblance of the two boys, which leads to all the mix-ups, funny and pathetic, make the play a highly amusing one.

Miss McDannel plays most cleverly both parts that of the young Prince, Edward of Wales, later King Henry VIII., and Tom Canty, the pauper.

Her naive, sweet manner as she tried so hard to learn the ways of the Prince was in striking contrast to the domineering manner of the Prince as he demanded right and left all the respect and deference due one of his position.

The Earl of Hertford, uncle to Prince Edward, was decidedly good in his part as was also Leslie Palmer, who played the role of Lord Seymour, younger brother of the Earle.

John Canty, the London thief, and leader of his gang, likewise the father of the pauper, was played well by Walter Walker and Carnet Christie as Hugh Gallard, a member of Canty's band was especially good.

Donald Meek lived up to his well-earned reputation and again covered himself with glory in the role of Antony Gorse, a crazy peasant. Mabel Montgomery made a charming Princess Elizabeth, while others worthy of mention were Mrs. Canty, beggar and fortune teller, wife to John Canty; Grace Lothrop, as Nan Canty, Albert Hickety and Alfred Clark.

The play is most picturesquely presented, the scenes shifting from the slums to the palace and with all the most interesting features.

It's a children's play but it's also a play of much interest to grown-ups as well, and that could easily be seen by watching the mothers as well as the children.

STIMSON GETS MILITIA FACTS

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Adjutant-General Stewart was summoned to Washington by telegraph and presented to Secretary of War Stimson yesterday a roster of the National Guard for Pennsylvania with a detailed report on the arms, equipment and capability of his officers. He declared that at a moment's notice Pennsylvania would be able to send 10,000 well-trained men for an invasion of Mexico.

General Stewart does not agree with the officers who made the plans for the mobilization of the militia. He declares the National Guard of Pennsylvania can be sent to Mexico direct from the League Island navy yard.

The War Department plans provide for the assembling of the Pennsylvania troops at Mobile. After spending an hour with Mr. Stimson, during which the latter explained the War Department plans, General Stewart paid a visit to Major-General Wood.

Adjutant-General Weybricht of Ohio, has made a similar report to Secretary Stimson. His State will be able to provide 8,000 fully-equipped men at a moment's notice. In two days Ohio would be able to provide an additional 6,000 but must rely upon the Federal government to equip them.

As outlined by Secretary Stimson the War Department plans, immediately upon a decision to intervene, to throw as many troops into Mexico from as many different points as possible, so as to overawe the natives by a sheer show of strength, forcing them to capitulate after the shortest possible campaign. A shipment of 500 rifles and 20,000 rounds of ammunition destined for the Mexico garrison at Ojinaga was held up today at Eagle Pass. This was cited here as an indication that this government is not inclined to grant all applications which the Mexican government may make to transport munitions of war across the line. It was feared these arms might fall into Orozco's hands.

Colonel Steever prevented delivery to the insurgents of two French aeroplanes at El Paso, and President Taft approved the plan. It is thought the machines came from New York.

This is probably the first time an aeroplane has been held to be contraband of war, although the Italian government unsuccessfully objected to the landing of a French aeroplane in Tripoli.

PASSOVER FEAST OBSERVED BY JEWS THROUGHOUT CITY

The exodus of the Israelites from old Egypt, where they were slaves of Pharoah some 3,000 or more years ago, is being celebrated this week by the Jewish people, who are preparing to usher in the Passover, the greatest of Jewish festivals. Many services will be held in the synagogues and these are always largely attended. Arriving at their homes after the service a solemn service called the Seder service will be held at Temple Mishkan Tefila, Rabbi H. H. Robenovitz will preach tomorrow morning on the subject "Constructive Judaism." On Saturday Rabbi Harry Levi will speak on "Where All Honor Lies;" on Sunday the subject of his discourse will be "The Alchemists."

PATENT DECISION MAY HIT WRIGHTS

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A decision which may affect the patents of the Wright brothers, Curtis and other aeroplane inventors was made by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals when it reversed the action of the Commissioner of Patents and authorized the reinstatement of an application of Hugo Hattulath of New York for a patent on a flying machine filed January 8, 1900. Several years after Hattulath, who is now dead, applied for his patent the Wright brothers perfected their biplane.

PRINCE OF WALES IN FRANCE TO FINISH LANGUAGE STUDY

PARIS, April 2.—The Prince of Wales is now in Paris, where he is the guest of the Marquis de Breteuil. France is showing the greatest interest in the Prince, who is to spend several months in the French capital with the Marquis de Breteuil, whose wife is Edith Garner, an American girl. The Vicountesse de Breteuil, the sister-in-law of the Marquis, is also an American girl, Edythe Grant. The American colony in Paris, therefore, takes a lively interest in the sojourn here of the Prince of Wales, who comes with his tutor to complete his education in French.

The newspapers express the hope in welcoming the Prince of Wales that he, like his grandfather, King Edward, will be fond of Paris. The Marquis de Breteuil was for years a close friend of King Edward. The Prince is travelling incognito under the name of the Earl of Chester.

MARY GARDEN WILL DIRECT OPERA HOUSE

PARIS, April 2.—It is reported that an American syndicate which is backing Mary Garden is likely to join a French enterprise with a view to renting the Vaudeville Theatre in the Boulevard des Italiens and making it a luxurious lyric house. It is further said the house will be called the Mary Garden Opera House, and that the American prima donna will have the artistic direction of it, besides interpreting star roles.

Attractions of Many Theatres

GLOBE—"At the Mouth of the Crater," by Barry Johnson and his company, and a dozen other Vaudeville Acts of the popular variety. Woodward's "Statue Dogs" and Wilbur Mack's novelty sketch, "The Girl and the Pearl," are among the other attractive numbers. New moving pictures and a song review are on the bill.

GAIETY—Robie's Knickerbocker Burlesquers in "The Love Kiss," "Casey, the Piper" and "The Doings of Dr. Louder." Roger Imhof, who heads the company, is more than ordinarily comical, and the assistance given him by the young women of the company is all that could be desired. It is smart burlesque.

PREMIER—Moving Pictures and Songs, headed by "The Passion Play," a picture that faithfully reproduces the interesting scenes at Oberammergau, which draws thousands of tourists. More than a half-mile of film is used to present this picture, which is broken into fifty big scenes. The bill also contains new songs.

NATIONAL—Boston Boys' Vacation Jubilee, with a company of fifty youngsters, heading a long bill of vaudeville numbers. The act includes the most popular songs of the last seventy-five years, from "London Bridge is Falling Down" to "That Mysterious Rag." Another feature is Mme. Da La Guerra, a sensational dancer.

SHUBERT—James T. Powers in "Two Little Brides," a modern musical play with girls and comedy.

ROOSEVELT TO WIN, SAYS DIXON

Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana, manager of the campaign of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, while in Boston today on his way to Vermont, analyzed the fight between the Colonel and President Taft up today and declared that Roosevelt would be nominated beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The interview, which took place at the Parker House, where Senator Dixon took breakfast with Matthew Hale, the Massachusetts Roosevelt leader, and Bradbury Colby and R. H. Stoddard of New York, began with Dixon's remark that he had managed President Taft's campaign four years ago and that he was now doing penance.

"I was at Oyster Bay last night," said Senator Dixon, "and had a talk with the Colonel. I arranged for his Kentucky and West Virginia speaking trip. He will speak at Louisville and Parkersburg, W. Va.

"Ten days from now he will come to New Hampshire, and he will probably follow in the same route as Taft. Later he will come again to Massachusetts.

"We're feeling pretty optimistic right now. The country doesn't realize our strength because—and you can say this from me—the statements about delegates published in New York papers and elsewhere are absolutely false.

"They are deliberate prevarications and misrepresentations of the facts.

"At the present time I can say that we will carry Maine beyond the shadow of a doubt. In Vermont we will have a substantial majority at the State convention. We will have it by at least forty votes.

"In the great North and Western Republican States we have twice as many instructed delegates as Taft in the grave-yard States of the South, where there is no real Republican party, and from where skeleton delegates are sent, there are contests on in every district.

CLARK DELAYS FINAL DECISION

Champ Clark, Speaker of the national House of Representatives, is holding up today his decision whether or no he will allow the use of his name in the primaries on April 30 for an expression from the Democratic voters of Massachusetts on his candidacy for the nomination for President.

The situation is this: Speaker Clark, out of courtesy to Governor Foss, is averse to contesting with the Governor in his home State. The Speaker has pursued a similar course in New Jersey and Ohio, where governors are candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Massachusetts situation has become complicated.

The confusion arose over the determination of Governor Wilson's friends to put his name on the ballot. This occasioned some friends of Speaker Clark to inform him that if Wilson received however few votes on the ballot he would be entitled to consideration as the second choice of the delegation. This is a wrong construction of the law and it is expected that when Speaker Clark is apprised of the true purport of the law he will preserve his original policy of leaving the local field to the local candidates.

Governor Foss and ex-Senator Dubois, campaign manager for Speaker Clark, were in communication by telephone before daylight today on the situation.

Senator Dubois informed the Governor that if the Massachusetts ballot provides for a second choice, and if Speaker Clark's name could go on for second choice, then Clark papers filed for a preferential choice on the ballot would be withdrawn.

The Governor informed ex-Senator Dubois that the Massachusetts law did not provide for a second choice.

"I have had several talks with Senator Dubois," said Governor Foss today," and I have forwarded to him, for Speaker Clark, copies of the Massachusetts law on primaries. He should have them today.

"I told the Senator that only one State had a preferential for second place. That State is Oregon. There is no provision whatever on the Massachusetts ballot for an expression of opinion on second choice.

High School Girls to Star Brighton to See Them Play

TWO OF PRINCIPALS TO APPEAR IN PLAY.

Fair Students Busy Getting Ready to Give Entertainment for Class Paper.

Great interest among followers of school dramatics is centred in the performance of the three-act comedy, "Mice and Men," to be presented by pupils of the Brighton High School at Whitney Hall, Brookline on Friday evening, April 12.

The performance is given for the benefit of the class paper, which is termed the "Imp," and from present box office indications the show bids fair to eclipse any previous entertainment given by the students of the Brighton High School.

The play is a romantic comedy, is in four acts, has as many scenes and was written by Madelina Surette Ryley. The players are being coached by Robert Howes Burnham. Rehearsals that have so far been held show untold talent on the part of the many young men and ladies who are to take part.

Following is the list of principals and the parts: Mark Embury, John H. O'Neil; Captain George Lovell, Arthur Swonborne; Peggy, Helen E. Rourke; Roger Goodlake, Melville M. Ames; Peter, Kimball A. Baker; Johnnua Goodlake, Alice Schofield; Mrs. Deborah, Katherine Mills; Sir Harry Trumbleseme, Granville Fuller; matron of the hospital, Florence Crowley; Bogdie, Granville Fuller; Kit, Fred Bates; Molly, Katherine Hill. Others in the cast include Lillian Gurney, Regina Germain, Frances Short, Doris Pierce, Margaret Dowling, Ruth Tubin, Catherine Baldwin and Anna McCarthy.

BLAMES SUFFRAGE FOR SLIGHT TO CUPID

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—Equal suffrage for women is largely responsible for the marked decrease in the number of marriage licenses issued in California for the month of March, County Clerk Pfund declares. "Nine thousand women registered to vote in this county last month, but only fifty-six marriage licenses were issued here."

GIANT MERGER FOR WORCESTER

Articles of Incorporation were applied for at the State House for the Reed-Prentice Company of Worcester, which is to be organized tomorrow with a capital stock of $2,500,000. It will be the largest industrial consolidation in Worcester.

The corporation will include the following Worcester corporations: F. E. Reed Company, capital stock $100,000, employing 450 hands; Prentice Brothers Company, capital stock $100,000, employing 400 hands; Reed Foundry Company, capital stock $75,000, employing 50 hands; Reed & Curtis Machine Screw Company, capital stock $350,000, employing 50 hands; Crompton Associates, capital stock $350,000.

The merger has been under consideration for several months, but within the past few weeks the work has been hurried. The capital stock will be divided as follows: $1,250,000, 7 per cent. preferred and $1,250,000 common. The preferred will be placed on the market after the organization has been completed. A part of the common will be held by a number of the former interests, and the remainder will be purchased by those now going to take control.

"HAT'S IN THE RING," LATEST SONG TO SING

NEW YORK, April 2.—The latest popular song, heard nightly in a Broadway cafe at a cabaret show, runs thus:

There was an old lion who had an old hat,
Now isn't anything strange about that,
But the strange part was, when the lion got wet,
And he got to running around in the hot,
It hadn't shrunk a bit, and the lion knew that it did;
He took his fedora and gave it a fling,
And everybody heard somebody sing:

My hat's in the ring! My hat's in the ring!
It's bound around with an old cotton string.
I'm filled with delight; I'm ready to fight.
Hooray! For my hat's in the ring!

GRESHAM GETS RESCUE RECORD

After four months of the severest Winter weather encountered in years, the revenue cutter Gresham is in Boston harbor, where she will lie until next Winter, going out only when calls for assistance are received. The Winter's work of the Gresham, Androscoggin and Acushnet saved more than fifty vessels, worth more than a million and a half dollars. Some two score of human lives were saved, and the Gresham's officers said today that the Winter's work was the hardest they have ever put in.

The Gresham began her rescue work December 1, and to the aid of the threemasted schooner William B. Herrick, disabled off Pollock Rip Lightship. She was towed into Vineyard Haven.

An entire night was spent January 5, in the face of a terrific northwest gale in the Pentitses search with the aid of the searchlight for a dory containing a man abandoned on the fishing grounds. Later it was learned the man had been picked up by a schooner.

A stone lighter ashore, which impeded the work of the life saving crew at Long Point, was pulled off on January 8 and the next day the cutter went to the assistance of a steamer grounded well up on the banks at Pamet River.

From then hardly a day passed that some vessel in distress was not assisted in the face of the most trying difficulties. Its crew saved from probable death and taken to a safe harbor.

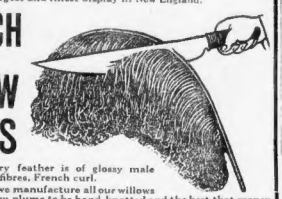
EASTER PLUMES and FEATHERS

We are anticipating the greatest business of our long career—this week. In order that you may not be disappointed, we earnestly advise early selection of Ostrich Feathers or Willow Plumes.

We have the largest and finest display in New England.

OSTRICH AND WILLOW PLUMES



Each and every feather is of glossy male stock; wide, hard fibres, French curl.

REMEMBER, we manufacture all our willows and guarantee every plume to be hand-knotted and the best that money can buy.

We are quoting only a few of the many hundred values. Act quickly, as many of the lots will go fast.

The following low prices cannot be duplicated by any other store in Boston, for goods of equal quality:

	Value.	Now.
Lot 1—Hand Knotted Willows, 20 in. long	$ 5.00	$ 3.89
Lot 2—Hand Knotted Willows, 22½ in. long	11.00	5.89

It's Easy to Peel Off All Your Freckles

(From American Home.)

The contrast between the freckles and the clear skin usually is so great that no bleach can be more than partially successful in obliterating the disfigurements. Ordinary mercolized wax is far better; it literally peels off the freckles. Get an ounce of it at the nearest drug store and tonight spread on enough to completely cover your face; remove in the morning with warm water. Repeat daily until every freckle has disappeared.

Rough, blotchy, pimpled skin, also common at this season, may be entirely gotten rid of by this same method, without discomfort or inconvenience. The effect is decidedly worth while, the new complexion obtained being so clear, so fine in texture, so delightful. Nothing else will offer such quick relief. Be careful not to bathe the face in a basin made by dissolving a piece of powdered alkaline in a half pint of witch hazel.

WHITE FAVORS PENSION PLAN

Maurice T. White, appointed acting superintendent of the public schools of Boston to take the place of Stratton D. Brooks, who resigned to become the president of the University of Oklahoma, said today that his aim would be to carry on the established policy of the schools.

Mr. White thinks that teachers should receive about one-third of their salaries as pensions and that there should be no maximum limit of $600, as the bill now provides. He is a great believer in the extension courses of the schools and he thinks that the Mechanic Arts High School is an excellent institution. He will give his attention at once to the proposal to enlarge the scope of the school buildings.

"I, of course, under the circumstances of my appointment, will make no attempt to institute radical policies or make any change in the conduct of the schools. I am named as acting superintendent only and undoubtedly in two months more a permanent superintendent will be named.

"It is barely possible that a permanent superintendent will not be appointed before September. But even so the Summer period has little real work. My efforts during my administration will be to carry on as well as may be, the established policy.

"In regard to the pension bill I think that the provision for teachers of about one-third of their salary, not exceeding $600, is about right. I do not think it should be restricted to $600 as a maximum sum, however."

CHILDREN COLLECT 22,250 MOTH NESTS

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, April 2.—In the recent competition of boys and girls for $30 in prizes 22,250 gypsy moth nests were collected under the direction of the tree wardens. The first prize was won by Highland Banks, with a total of 6,200 nests. He got $10. The second prize of $7 went to J. Burleigh with 5,500 nests.

SEEK WOMAN GIVING CHECKS IN CAMBRIDGE

The Cambridge police are looking for a stylishly dressed young woman who has been handing out spurious checks to various merchants. Last night she passed a check for $12 on a Cambridgeport market. The young woman is dark complexioned, is short and stout and wears a black fur coat.

NAGEL ADDRESSES COTTON CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary of Commerce and Labor Charles Nagel addressed the convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association in session today. Secretary Nagel told the 500 delegates of the bureau of manufacture of his department in connection with the cotton manufacturing industry. He did not mention the Lawrence strike, nor the probable action of Congress on the cotton schedule in the tariff act.

Bouquet for Sponsor of Bachelor Tax Stolen

Mrs. Charlotte Smith is indignant today because a bouquet, which the Woman's Homestead League placed upon the desk of Representative J. L. Donovan, in recognition of his standing sponsor for the bachelor tax bill, was appropriated by other members of the House.

"And just think," she said, "some of those same men voted against the bill."

The flowers were placed on Donovan's desk. He was somewhat surprised when he returned and saw the big bouquet. A moment later, he left the chamber for a moment and fellow-members seized the opportunity to divide the flowers.

HOW TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION

One of our lady readers who found that her skin was becoming harsh and dry from the use of powders, rouge and creams, sends us the formula below. She states that the simple, harmless, and inexpensive lotion made therefrom softened her skin, and so greatly enhanced the beauty of her complexion that she has entirely done away with all other preparations which she had been accustomed to use. This lotion can easily be prepared at home or by any good druggist. It calls for two ounces of Rose Water, one drachm Tincture of Benzoin, and two ounces Flowers of Oxzoin. Mix together and apply night and morning with the hands or use a soft cloth or sponge. Always shake well before using. One delighted correspondent asks that her name be withheld for personal reasons, but nevertheless gives us the permission to publish her letter for the benefit of other readers. She adds that this formula was given her by a woman 65 years old whose youthful complexion and almost total absence of wrinkles were a source of wonder and admiration to all who knew her.

Reference to the Rhee-James Drug Stores of this City brings out the statement that these ingredients are all regularly carried in their stock and that they can fill the prescription at any time.

EXCERPT FROM VOLUME III

"A defiant spirit now prevailed all over the South. When General Dix, the loyal Secretary of the Treasury, sent a special agent of his department to secure from seizure revenue cutters at New Orleans and Mobile, with special orders for their commanders, the captain (Breshwood) of one of them at the former port, haughtily refused to obey. When the agent telegraphed to the Secretary a notice of this disobedience, the latter immediately sent his famous despatch."

"This vigorous order was the first sign given by the Executive Government at Washington of a real determination to quell the rising insurrection; and it gave hopes to the friends of the Union who had observed, with great anxiety, the President of the Republic sitting with his hands folded in passive acquiescence while its enemies were preparing to destroy it. But the conspirators in New Orleans, who had control of the telegraph, did not allow the despatch to pass. The revenue cutter fell into the hands of the insurgents; and two days afterward the National Mint and Custom-house at New Orleans, with all the coin and bullion they contained, amounting to $536,000, were seized by the Secessionists, and the precious metals were placed in the coffers of the State of Louisiana."

COMMANDER F. C. FISKE SCORES CONGRESSMAN

the dark river, for eternal vigilance to our country, for only one flag, the flag we fought for—Old Glory."

12,769 Members in State.

There are 12,769 members now in good standing, and during the year 892 have died and one Post has surrendered its charter, that of Deerfield. Commander Fiske urged the comrades to put forth their energies to bring the delinquent ones into the fold, and asked for the organization of associate membership. The cash balance on hand is $7,587.42, and there has been received during the year $3,872.84.

About the pensions Commander Fiske said:

"The present Congress apparently has been active in trying to pass some pension legislation that may be of additional benefit to the men who saved the country, and I firmly believe that a bill will be passed this session that will be of greater service to us than the one now in force. One hundred Union veterans are answering the last roll call every day. An army of 40,000 men is mustered out each year. Of the 2,300,000 who went forth to save the Union, 514,884 were on the pension roll January 1, 1911. There is a diversity of opinion among the veterans as to which bill now before Congress will be of the most benefit to those left of the Union army this side of the river, but all, I think, will be satisfied if a veteran seventy-five years of age receives $50 per month to assist him in his extreme old age.

Blames Congressmen.

"Comrades, I have given the pension legislation careful thought and my best attention this year, and am sorry that we have not had better results, owing largely to the lack of sympathy of some of our Massachusetts representatives in the Congress of the United States, which the soldiers of Massachusetts for four long years and on hundreds of battlefields helped to maintain, thus making it possible for them to legislate today. By their votes they now fit to make it difficult for the old soldier to live in comfort in his declining years. That they may see the error of their judgment before all of us have crossed the dark river is the earnest prayer of your department commander."

Appropriations Made.

The regular appropriations were then made. The sum of $1,000 was appropriated for the salary of the assistant adjutant-general and department clerk, and was held in $400.

HIGH OFFICIAL OF THE G. A. R. PRAISES BRADY WAR PICTURES

I regard highly the Brady war pictures as illustrating the events of the Civil War and I think it is a great enterprise on the part of the Boston AMERICAN to make them accessible to the general reader. They are certainly invaluable to the growing boy and girl who desires to know about the Civil War. I cannot too heartily commend them and I believe their publication by a newspaper will be of great benefit to the public.—Assistant Adjutant-General Wilfred A. Wetherbee, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R.

$500 was given to pay the expenses of the department commander and others who attend camp fires, fairs and county associations.

The report of Assistant Adjutant-General Wilfred A. Wetherbee showed the amount in the bank to the credit of the organization to be $8,348.34.

Other reports were given by George A. Hosley, senior vice-commander, and Isaac C. Day, junior vice-commander. Assistant Adjutant-General Wilfred A. Wetherbee spoke of the harmony and good fellowship that prevail in the encampment.

CAMBRIDGE DRUG CLERK FINED $100

William C. Roycroft, a Cambridge druggist, with a store at 1920 Massachusetts avenue, North Cambridge, and his clerk, Joseph Hanson, were before Judge Almy in the Cambridge District Court today charged with illegal sales of liquor. The complainant was Sergeant "Ted" Leahy. Several young men who said they bought liquor at the store were put on the stand. The defendants made a general denial of all the testimony. Roycroft was found not guilty, Hanson was fined $100. He appealed and was held in $400.

Wife Acts as Own Detective

MRS. OWEN A. CONNER, ACCUSES HUSBAND OF CRUELTY

Mrs. Owen A. Conner Makes Charges Against Western Union Manager.

Owen A. Conner, manager of the Boston office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and formerly day news manager of the Associated Press in New York City, appeared in the Municipal Court today on a charge brought by his wife in connection with her suit for divorce.

Mrs. Conner, who is a pretty woman of about thirty, also was in court, but was not called to testify as the case was put over for a week at the request of Mr. Conner's attorney. It was learned that Mrs. Conner, acting as her own detective, gathered the evidence in the case.

Mrs. Conner said the arrest of her husband is only the first step in her effort to get a complete divorce, charging non-support, cruelty, intoxication and a desire for other women's company. It is believed that Mr. Conner will enter a cross-libel.

Conner was arrested last night at the office of the Western Union on State street and was taken to the Court square police station. An hour later he was released on bail of $400.

The Conners were married on June 21 of last year in St. Teresa's Church, Brookline, where they both lived. Immediately after their wedding Mr. Conner received his appointment as manager of the Boston office of the Western Union and they came here.

Mrs. Conners asserts their troubles began soon after their arrival. She says her husband sent her back to New York on numerous occasions, in fact so many times she was unable to establish a real home here, living most of the time in hotels. Twenty trips were made by Mrs. Conner between New York and Boston, she asserts, until she became disgusted. She referred to herself as "the wife and valise."

Mrs. Conner says:

"My husband has treated me shamefully and if I thought all men were like him I would have very little regard for the opposite sex. For nine years he wooed me and for three years during our engagement he was very attentive and quite received me with his affable manner."

FAHEYS' PLEA FOR SON IS DISMISSED

A writ of habeas corpus brought by John J. and Bridget Fahey of Amesbury, to compel the House for Destitute Catholic Children of Boston to return their thirteen-year-old son, Thomas, to them, was dismissed today by Justice Sheldon of the Supreme Court, as the boy is now in New Hampshire and is out of the jurisdiction of the court. The parents claimed the boy was being unlawfully detained by the home. They said they were willing and able to support him.

VETERAN STRICKEN AT CONVENTION DIES

Frederick L. Le Baron, seventy-two years old, a veteran of the Civil War, of No. 95 Dean street, Attleboro, was taken ill in Faneuil Hall this noon while attending the Grand Army convention. He was taken in the police ambulance to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he died shortly afterwards.

WITNESS SAYS WEIL THREATENED SUICIDE

Jefferson F. Howell, a mining prospector, under direct cross-examination in the United States District Court today at the trial of Victor M. Weil, charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, said Weil told him he would commit suicide if Howell made public facts about the "worst features of the star claims of the property in which Weil was interested.

GRAND TRUNK BILL IN WEEK

porter of the Grand Trunk proposition from the beginning, said:

"I believe that the action of the Railroad Committee today sounds the death knell of transportation monopoly in Massachusetts and New England, for the New Haven has had complete monopoly of all New England transportation as well as of the transportation facilities of Massachusetts.

"The Boston AMERICAN should receive the commendation of everyone who wants the Grand Trunk to come in here, for the great work it is and has been doing in behalf of this proposition. The AMERICAN, through the great campaign of publicity which it is conducting on this matter, will not only be instrumental in getting the Grand Trunk in here, in my opinion, but will also be a great factor in opening up a new era for railroad development in Massachusetts."

Representative John F. Meaney of Blackstone, the ablest orator in the House, who led the fight to secure the adjournment of the Grand Trunk petition for consideration this year, said:

"The action of the Committee on Railroads, I believe, forecasts what action the Legislature as a whole will take on the Grand Trunk matter. I believe that the entrance of the Grand Trunk into Massachusetts will give us something which we are greatly in need of, and that is competition in transportation.

"As a legislator who is interested to see the Grand Trunk come in, and as a citizen, I wish to express my thanks to the Boston AMERICAN for the work it had been doing in behalf of the Grand Trunk proposition."

ACCUSE CARENS OF STEALING TOOLS

William J. Carens, nineteen years old, was brought from Deer Island this morning by Lieutenant Stitt and Sergeant Rutherford of the detective bureau of the Brookline police, on a habeas in the Brookline court, where he was arraigned before Judge Charles F. Perkins, charged with three counts of breaking and entering and larceny. The first count charged the larceny of tools, valued at $14 from Philip Rosenthal of St. Paul's street, Brookline; the second the larceny of tools, valued at $15 from the toolhouse of T. H. Allen on Cromwell road, and the third, the larceny of a suitcase and tools valued at $18.50 from Arthur Russell. He was held for the Norfolk Grand Jury in $800.

Doctors Give Grace Four Days to Live

ATLANTA, Ga., April 2.—Eugene Grace, who says his wife, formerly Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Opie, drugged and shot him, is doomed, according to statements by his physicians. Grace was thought to be improving on Sunday and preparations were made to operate on him today to remove the bullet which has caused paralysis of two-thirds of his body. Early this morning, however, he became worse. Four days more of life are all he may hope for according to Dr. Bailey, his physician. Meningitis, which might kill him instantly, is feared.

Evidence of blood poisoning already indicate the beginning of the end. It is now certain that an operation cannot be performed.

The patient is conscious and remains undisturbed. He is constantly asking about his old girl friends, many of whom have visited him. When there are no visitors he frequently grows angry and speaks harshly to those around him.

Doctor Attends Dead Man 3 Days

NEW YORK, April 2.—John Borvis, twenty-two years old, of Yonkers, lay dead for three days, while his relatives were treating him for illness, believing he was in a trance.

Even the physician called in when Borvis went into a state of coma believed he was alive all the time. The body retained its warmth three days after Borvis died. This is what decided the doctor.

Borvis was taken ill a week ago, but began to improve and was able to go out. He went home Wednesday evening and went to sleep at 11 o'clock. The next morning he failed to get up. Dr. Brown was called and was positive Borvis must be alive. Although the stethescope did not record any heart movement, he thought that the stethescope might be out of order.

with the

All-Gas Kitchen

USE GAS THE MODERN FUEL

THE OFFER

We will supply 5000 cubic feet of gas free with each "All-Gas Kitchen" to be installed in buildings completed prior to July 1st, 1911, under conditions which will be submitted on request.

Orders must be placed during the month of April, 1912.

ALL-GAS KITCHEN

The "All-Gas Kitchen" is one in which gas is used for cooking all the year round, and the coal range entirely discarded.

Most modern houses and apartments are equipped with the "All-Gas Kitchen," but some of the older houses are still using the coal stove in winter because the kitchen is not heated from the furnace.

KITCHEN HEAT

We can readily provide adequate means of furnishing kitchen heat by an extension of the heating system, or by a heating coil in the furnace running to a radiator in the kitchen, or by the gas steam radiator. Hot water may be obtained from the furnace in winter and from a gas water heater in summer.

MODERNIZE THE KITCHEN

Our Offer is intended as a special inducement to modernize such kitchens as we have mentioned so that the advantages of gas may be secured throughout the entire year.

TIME OPPORTUNE

This is a good time to dispense with that coal stove once for all. Gas is always superior to coal for cooking. Now that the threatened coal strike is actually here, its use is almost imperative. Our offer makes the change easy.

SAVE COAL BY GAS HEATING

We again urge you to save all the coal you can for next winter by heating with gas from now on, when only a comparatively small amount of heating is necessary for a few hours a day.

ESTIMATE FURNISHED

Send for one of our Representatives who will furnish you with full details of this offer, or call at 16-24 West Street, or at one of our local offices.

We will gladly prepare an estimate of the cost of the necessary equipment.

Two Pilgrim Teams Join Forces

'On to Washington,' Is Camp Cry

By L. R. MURDOCH.

Sporting Editor American.

L. R. MURDOCH

RICHMOND, Va., April 2.—Both teams of the Boston National squad join here today, where the Regulars play the Richmond team of the Virginia League in the first of a series of two games. After this series they move on to Washington for two contests with the Senators of the American League, who have finished a training season in Southern Virginia. The Pilgrims ran into a rain storm here, the first they have encountered since leaving their training grounds at Augusta. It overtook them just as the Regulars were finishing a game at Petersburg yesterday, where they trimmed the Champions of the Virginia State League, 11 to 3, in a remarkable hurry-up baseball exhibition.

RUSH GAME TO ESCAPE FROM TOWN.

The Regulars made their customary nineteen hits, and the Petersburg outfit netted eight, most of which were presented to them in the Pilgrims' anxiety to finish the game in time to catch a train, for fear of being left overnight in Petersburg, face to face with starvation.

They caught the train, but it was only by the grace of Miller, Campbell and Hartley trying to stretch any old hit into a home run and Bill Sweeney deliberately striking out. All is fair in baseball so long as you win the game and catch your train.

The Boston aggregation is settled here in the hope of staying settled for two days straight in one place. They have been on the jump and moving every day for nearly a week now, running into all kinds of railroad and other conditions.

Kling will try out another batch of pitchers today. He has the rest of his team going to his reasonable satisfaction, and it appears to be improving every day.

Tyler was sent out again yesterday and he put on so much "smoke" in the early innings that the Petersburg Champions could barely see the ball. After a while he let down a bit, and the Virginians gleaned five hits off his delivery in six innings, bunching enough of them to score two runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Campbell Stretches Three-bagger Into Homer.

Tyler is a bit over weight just now, and the speeding up of the early innings showed. He let down as a matter of precaution. After the tiny batfest the youngest-looker sighted up again and Petersburg could do nothing with him. He struck out nine men.

"Buster" Brown, the only other pitcher taken on the Petersburg excursion, went in for three innings and lobbed the ball over the plate in the hope of making the

RUSH GAME TO ESCAPE FROM TOWN.

Petersburg men hit the ball in a hurry and finish up the game.

They pulled four hits. Brown let them have one in the last and then a speedy double play by Ingerton, Sweeney and Hauser wound up the session.

The Pilgrims corralled nine hits for a total of seven runs in the first five innings, which was the margin the New York Yankees had in Petersburg Saturday. Kling was trying all sorts of batting experiments up to then.

In the sixth he gave orders to cut loose and "whoop her up." Sweeney led off with a smashing single and Campbell stretched an ordinary three-bagger to left in a home run. Miller singled, Jackson and Hauser sacrificed him along, under orders, and Ingerton doubled to the left field fence. McDonald fanned and the session was over.

Harlden went in while Kling went out to "count the house," which consisted of about 563 "fans," who had paid from ten to forty cents each to see the exhibition. Harlden saved the air.

One More Home Run For Former Pirate.

Tyler was safe on a smash to right. Sweeney got a life on an error and Campbell repeated his home-run performance, sending a screecher to right center that might have gone for three sacks with anybody else, but was an easy homer for the speedy marvel from St. Louis.

Kling was hurrying the game on and keeping one eye on his watch. "Doc" Miller deliberately ran into an out trying to stretch a double, Jackson couldn't help batting another two-bagger and Hauser popped.

McDonald continued the two-base hit in the eighth. Harlden followed with what looked like a two-bagger, but the Boston bunch yelled "home run" and the Pilgrim catcher was an easy victim of the play, after a five-man relay, throw from the outfield in which nearly everybody fumbled.

Sweeney whipped deliberately in the ninth. Campbell lined out another double and essayed to steal third on the ball in the pitcher's hands. He was a sure bet. Miller popped to right, winding up proceedings and everybody hiked for the train.

The First and Fairest "Rooters" in the Land—The Pilgrim Band

GALLANT OUT FOR QUICK WIN

By JACK CONWAY.

There is an old weather-beaten adage which says that youth must be served. Many famous ring champions have found out to their sorrow that this is only too true.

Charley Griffin of Australia, who meets Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea at the Central A. C. tonight, believes that this adage is nothing more than tommy rot. Charley is twenty-seven years of age and was in his prime several years ago. But he still believes that he is capable of defeating a young, tough boxer like Gallant.

Gilbert is a coming lightweight and he believes that he will take Mr. Griffin into camp tonight. If he can do this, he will be in line for many important bouts.

The Chelsea boy is a rugged battler. He is well built, has strong muscles, if a fairly clever boxer and packs a dangerous wallop in either hand. Matty Baldwin will be in Gallant's corner.

Griffin has taken part in some memorable battles. He has clashed with such men as Matty Baldwin, Leach Cross, Jem Driscoll, Bert Keyes and Tommy Murphy.

Kid McDonald will meet Freddy O'Brien in a semi-final bout of eight rounds.

There are two good preliminaries. Jack Cowsey of Roxbury (not guilty) will meet Young Reno, while Young Aronson of East Boston and Young Milliken of Malden will give battle.

Duffy in Training for Owen Moran Bout.

Freddy Duffy, of Jamaica Plain, has started training for his ten-round bout with Owen Moran which takes place before the Colonial Club of Fall River on next Monday night. The Jamaica Plain lightweight says that the Briton will have to show rare form if he is to win.

Duffy did some rattling good work on his recent New York campaign. While in the big city, he did a lot of boxing with Mike Gibbons of St. Paul. Mike is of the opinion that Freddy has a great future in the squared circle.

Carpentier Favorite in Bout with Moran.

George Carpentier, the French middleweight wonder, rules a big favorite in his bout with Marcel Moreau which is scheduled to take place at Paris tomorrow night. Carpentier is only eighteen years of age and has made a remarkable record in the squared circle.

Carpentier is a pretty wise individual and says that he will never be persuaded to enter a ring with a negro. If Tommy Burns and Jim Jeffries had held similar views and had stuck to them we would now have no idea of those thrilling performances of so many alleged "white hopes."

Too Many Seconds Spoil the Boxer

One of the chief assets to a boxer when he is fighting for a championship is a good second. Few of the present day ringsters realize this fact, and if they do, they fail to heed it.

Some of the local third-raters have as many as five men in their corner when they are fighting. Each of these men has not an impression that he is a wizard at ring craft and once the gong sounds at the opening of the first round he starts yelling advice at the poor boxer.

With five men giving advice at the same time the boxer gets bewildered and if he has not a wonderful cool head he is liable to go down to defeat. Three men are enough for any boxer to have in his corner. Two should attend to bathe one and do any other necessary work while the third, and he alone, should give advice.

Amateur Baseball Games Wanted

The South Boston Cubs desire to meet any 16-17-year-old team in the State. Following is the line-up: F. Galvin, catcher; Murphy, pitcher; Gannon, first base; O'Toole, second base; Murphy, third base; O'Donnell, shortstop; J. Galvin, left field; Haul, center field; McCarthy, right field; Gannon and F. Galvin, No. 289 West Fourth street, South Boston.

The St. Augustines of South Boston is again in the field for coming year and would like to hear from any 18-year-old teams in the State, Connolly, Irene and Savin Hill preferred. Address all challenges the outfield. Manager Martin F. McDonough, No. 8 College street, South Boston.

"THE BITE'S GONE!"

A Tobacco Success Based on a Unique Discovery

Every smoker has noticed that ordinary tobacco is apt to irritate the tongue, bring a "catch" in the throat.

The founder of the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, himself an enthusiastic smoker, observing this defect in ordinary tobacco, invented a process which not only destroyed the "bite" but rendered tobacco prepared by the Patterson process absolutely beneficial to the throat. "Tuxedo" is always the original granulated Burley, prepared by this [illegible] amazing success. Imitations [illegible] quality of "Tuxedo" [illegible] success not only bolsters [illegible] growing in popularity [illegible] great "pipe smoke for gentlemen."

Johnny Hayes to Run in London Marathon

LONDON, April 2.—Johnny Hayes, winner of the Marathon at the last Olympic games, will be one of the contestants in the International Marathon race which will take place here on May 28. The race was first scheduled to be held at Monaco, France, but the idea was later abandoned.

Another contestant in the race will be Pietro Dorando of Italy, a close rival of Hayes. Among the other entries are those of Gusta Ljungstrom, Thure, the French champion, Wells of Ireland and Wada, the noted Japanese runner.

Rain Holds Up Harvard Football Practice

Rain today prevented the second day's practice of the Harvard football squad. Thirty-eight men were out for the first day's work, reporting to Coach Houghton and Captain Wendell. Captain Fisher of last year's team assisted in the coaching.

The Spring work for the squad only consists of light work, punting, handling the ball, falling on the ball and other preliminary stunts. But three veterans were out for Spring work. Captain Wendell, Gardner and Parmenter. It is expected that more men will report each day, and that the squad will be well advanced before the Spring season is over.

Renew Fight for U. S. Official at Sweden

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Since it was announced at the White House that American would send no official representative to the Olympic Games at Stockholm next Summer, Senator Lodge has received several protests against the Administration's attitude.

The Municipal A. A. of Boston wrote to Senator Lodge urging him to use his influence to secure the appointment of Jerome D. Greene, secretary and treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, but Senator Lodge found that the President does not favor official representation.

This announcement caused a great deal of disappointment among the amateur athletic associations of the country, and protests are being brought to bear upon the President to induce him to reverse his decision.

New Coach Makes Hit With Melrose Team

The appointment of M. G. Somers of the Harvard Law School, formerly of Ohio State University athletic teams, as baseball coach at the Melrose High, is receiving favorable comment on all sides. Somers was a clever all-round athlete at Ohio State and goes to Melrose High School well recommended. Last Fall he coached the Allen School football team of West Newton, which made a splendid showing.

TEACHER-MANAGERS APPOINTED FOR TEAMS

The teacher-managers for the baseball, track and other teams of the Boston High Schools have been appointed by the school committee. Following are the appointments made: English High, baseball, William E. Smith; track and field, Ralph C. Benedict. Mechanic Arts, baseball, Edmund F. Field; track and field, Ambrose B. Warren; Boston Latin School, baseball, W. Frenchy; track and field, Joseph L. Powers; High School of Commerce, baseball, Arthur J. Fotch; track and field Lester Hart. West Roxbury High, baseball, Leon C. Coleman; track and field, Arthur F. O'Malley. Dorchester High, baseball, Stephen J. Murdock; track and field, Arthur W. Ross. Brighton High, baseball, George F. Hatch; track and field, Sidney Peterson. Charlestown High, baseball, track and field, John W. Reagan. East Boston High, baseball, track and field, Arthur M. Butler. PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—In the National three-cushion billiard tourney here, Harris of Chicago defeated Jones of Philadelphia, 50 to 48, in ninety-six innings.

RILEY'S COLUMN

THE Red Sox get away from Hot Springs Thursday for their Eastern hike. American League "fans" will have the first chance to get a line on what their favorites can do under actual league baseball conditions. The Sox will play real baseball teams—not many of them, but real ones—on the way home, and by the time they reach New York, for the American League opener, there ought to be fairly good idea of what they can do.

* * *

THE Pilgrims have shown vast improvement on the way home, and have done about as ordered. If the team can show daily gains consistent with what has been done already on the trip, and the men reach Boston in the right frame of mind, they will probably show some surprises at the Walpole street grounds.

* * *

INGERTON at short stop and Hauser at first base, the two most doubtful players on the Pilgrim team, have improved daily in the Spring exhibition games. Ingerton is getting the ground balls in better shape, and Hauser appears to be recovering from the illness which slowed up his work.

* * *

"HUB" Perdue, the husky Pilgrim pitcher, is worrying about his farm in Tennessee. "Huh," who has a typical Southern air, cultivated it along with pennies and other candies on an agricultural enterprise in his old home. He left his wife, two bright youngsters and three colored guardians on the farm while he went forth to make a record in the National League pitching department.

HUB was in great condition when he received a wire from his wife announcing that his farm was flooded and the three dusky guardians had fled. He was so completely disgusted by the news from home that he wired back to his wife to move into an apartment house while he tried to "get even" with National League batsmen. After he cleans them up he intends to go home and shoot up three colored agriculturists—if he ever catches up to them.

* * *

TALKING about Perdue's farmhands, the Pilgrims ran into another in Columbia, S. C., who wanted to be a sport, but his wife wouldn't let him. He had saved $113 when the running race season opened at Columbia. "Ah'm done trin' to beat anothah man at his own game," said the Pilgrim rooter. "Ah lost that $100 like it was watah, an' if Jane'd stayed here any longer Ah'd lost the othah $13. Ah tell you, man wife an' me doan talk no mo'h about hosses. She has a fit every time a hoss drives past the house. She got so sick o'vah it that Ah had to spend the othah $12 on a doctah's bill. If they evah gets anothah dollah out'n me they'll have to shoot it out.

HAVING coached the Boston National batteries as far as he could, having unofficially acted as Virginia Kling's playmate, thus having officiated as official Pilgrim rooter, to the intense disgust of Southern crowds, "Duke of Marlborough," otherwise known as Charley Starbuck, has now taken on the duty of official treasurer of the Walpole street team.

* * *

THE DUKE watches the ticket sellers and ushers and makes them give Ward's team a fair split of the gate money. "I thought you had to have a pretty keen eye and had to be wide awake to be an umpire," observed the Duke today, "but I've tried all ends of the game, and the man who watches the gate receipts has got to have the best lamps of the bunch. If I turned around to pick up my hat they'd have the whole club."

High Jump Record Is Accepted by A. A. U.

It was officially announced today that the new high jump record made by George Horine of Stamford University in a meet last Friday would be accepted by the A. A. U. and go down in the record books as a new amateur record. The report of his record jump of 6 feet 6¼ inches was verified by John Elliott, president of the Pacific Coast Association.

Mr. Elliott, who has been an authority in athletics on the Coast for many years, informed James E. Sullivan of the A. A. U. that the jump was a fair one and every rule of the A. A. U. had been complied with.

This performance broke the seventeen-year-old mark by Mike Sweeney. It was in a college meet that Horine broke the record. He had won the event at 6 feet 2 inches and then asked to have the bar raised a couple of inches to clear the college record. His coach advised him to try for it, but has not a wonderful cool head he is liable to go down to defeat. Three men are enough for any boxer to have in his corner. Two should attend to bathe one and do any other necessary work while the third, and he alone, should give advice. was removed and found to lack one eighth of an inch, so the record stands at 6 feet 6¼ inches.

APRIL FOOL

No! we are not calling anybody an April Fool, although many a wise one had it slipped over on him yesterday.

We merely wish to tell you that if you don't believe every word we have put into our advertising for the past 20 years we will surely fool you if you give us a chance to build you a suit or overcoat.

It is the men who have been buying ready-made clothes when they should have been patronizing some good tailor that make up the bulk of our new trade.

And the fact that we hold them—year after year—is the best indication in the world that "satisfaction follows the tape measure" when accompanied by high-grade workmanship.

Pull yourself together! Take a good, long breath and say "Gale & Kent's for my next suit," and stick to the resolution.

Like the famous Pear's Soap Kid, "You will never be happy till you've got it."

The cost will be $15 to $25 and an extra visit to our shop for a try-on. But take it from us oldtimers, that extra visit will do you more good in genuine satisfaction obtained than any time you ever spent in your life.

No waits. No excuses. No arguments. Goods ordered today will be delivered on Saturday, without fail, if so requested

Red Sox Put Over Home-Coming
Storm Upsets Stahl's Schedule

HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 2. Instead of [illegible] ing up today for the start homewards the Red Sox packed themselves off to the [illegible] ters to make ready for a possible workout [illegible] ing. The team is to lay over here until Thursday. President McAleer having [illegible] game [illegible] scheduled to take place tomorrow in Nashville and the next day in Dayton, Ohio. [illegible] which fell here, the magnate wired the Tennessee capital and found that the grounds there [illegible] as a result of a river freshet.

FAIR WEATHER ALONE IS NEEDED.

McAleer thought it would be better to remain in camp than take a chance on a trip to Dayton. This gives the team an opportunity for further practice if the weather jinx keeps its hands off.

Thursday after [illegible] the players leave for Cincinnati and [illegible] to arrive there Friday forenoon.

A three-game series is programmed for Cincinnati. The trains are [illegible] several hours late and even the hopeful fear that there will be no game Friday. This will cut the exhibition games for the Spring trip down to three at the most and more likely to two.

This series with the Reds is by no means a certainty, as the new Cincinnati ball park is [illegible] that remains to be done may be retarded by the rain. Like everything else on this year's Spring [illegible] as Buck O'Brien characterizes it, the games may be knocked on the head by [illegible] weather man.

The trip is the worst the Red Sox [illegible] took, but for all the [illegible] is in good condition [illegible] of fair weather to keep them in trim for the game with Harvard on April 9, the day after the homecoming.

President McAleer leaves today for Cincinnati, to attend to business matters. With him goes Mrs. McAleer. Treasurer McRoy remains [illegible] of the business end, while Jake Stahl, as usual, will see to it that the men [illegible] the most of every minute they can get in on the Majestic grounds.

McAleer Holds Up Work of Cutting Squad

McAleer says that his present intention is to carry all the twenty-five players now in camp back with him to Boston. He had [illegible] to see [illegible] in Nashville and Da[illegible]

Would Not Trade Campbell for Ty
Ward Back, Pleased With Team

"I wouldn't trade Vin Campbell for Ty [illegible] and I have the best hitting outfield in the National League today." These are two of the statements made by President Ward of the Pilgrims who arrived in Boston today after spending several weeks with his players at the Southern camp.

The [illegible] baseball magnate was [illegible] he discussed his team with [illegible] representative at the Boston National League officers in the Paddock building.

[illegible] glowing reports of his team and said that he felt certain that "Nosey" John Kling and his bunch of baseball warriors would be able to give any of the teams in the league a good battle this season. President Ward said:

"I never saw a harder hitting bunch of players and the twirlers are pitching in midseason form.

"Cy Young looks better than he did last year and we expect him to twirl [illegible] this season. Perdue, Tyler and Donnelly are [illegible] pitching great ball and are ready to start a hard season. Several of the pitchers developed sore arms [illegible] too early in the season, but in [illegible] games that they are getting [illegible] Southern team they are working the kinks out gradually and we will soon hear from [illegible] Brady and McTighe cut loose too early, but are now rounding into perfect trim.

McDonald Playing Good Ball.

"Before the team went South there was much talk about the weakness of [illegible] base, but I am quite satisfied with the outlook today. McDonald has been playing [illegible] this Spring that he has [illegible] his perfect [illegible] has shown a great improvement in his batting. Ben Houser at first base is also playing a good [illegible] in the games to date [illegible] He has [illegible] that were tagged [illegible] He was [illegible] the right place before [illegible]

"[illegible] best hitting outfield in the [illegible] Miller and Jackson have [illegible] this Spring [illegible] I can hardly [illegible] wonder and [illegible] trade him for Ty Cobb. He [illegible] and has [illegible] He will [illegible]

[illegible] the Boston [illegible] but he [illegible] improvement [illegible] Jackson is [illegible] in the few weeks [illegible] Boston team last year.

Sweeney Has No Superior.

[illegible] great [illegible] has no [illegible] statement [illegible] I had a good team [illegible]

[illegible] tremendous hard [illegible] camp. He [illegible] his players [illegible] has about [illegible] for him, and he has [illegible] from doing too [illegible] work.

[illegible] more players [illegible] team [illegible] Boston. The [illegible] good and it will be a hard [illegible] to pick the ones out. [illegible] Norfolk [illegible] and then the [illegible] came across [illegible] same team.

Playing Inside Ball.

"The [illegible] Augusta was not as beneficial as it might have been, but still the boys got into fairly good condition and will be in as good condition at the start of the season as any other team in the league.

"I am satisfied with the team and I think they will make a hit with the Boston fans. [illegible] and speed will [illegible] this year's [illegible] working on a lot [illegible] now being [illegible] perfected [illegible] gets under way."

"'Oh, Sis Mirandy,' says Sis Calline, 'as de Good Book says, we are fearfully and wonderfully made.'

"'Dat's right,' spons I, 'an' I reckon dat de Creator must turn out a mighty fine class job when He makes us, or else we couldn't stand all de tinkerin' dat de doc[illegible]

"But wid dat, Sis Calline said dat she must be on her way, as she was dest making a few farewell visits befo' she goes to de horspital, an' I speeds her on her way, for if dere is one thing dat raises my dander mo' than anodder, hit is dese heah women what is got de strength to stand thirty or forty years of bein' sick, but ain't got the strength to cook a meal's vittels, or do a day's washin', or sweep a floor.

"Yassum, hit takes a able-bodied woman to stand all de medicine dey takes, an' [illegible] if dey would put half de wuk on gettin' up an' keepin' deir home clean an' tendin' to deir husbands and chilluns dat dey does in nussin' deir pains, an' complainin' of deir miseries, dey would be well. Course, I ain't denyin' dat dere is lots of sick women, but I done took notice dat dem dat is got real pains an' aches dies, an' dat's what makes me have my spicions of dem wives what can go on bein' sick, year after year, widout givin' deir po', 'flicted husbands de reward of payin' all dem doc[illegible] widowers.

"Yassum, I specks dat [illegible] a invalid is about de best job dat anybody can grabble, for hit lets you in for doin' all dat you wants to do, an' lets you out of doin' all de things dat you don't want to do. All dat you got to do is to call yo' temper nerves, an' yo' can say what you likes to folks, an' instid of battin' you over de head lak you deserves, dey has got to sympathize wid you an' take it [illegible] you say you're sick.

An Excuse for Work

"An' ef you'se too lazy to wuk, all you got to do is to always be a-moanin' an' a-groanin' about your aches an' pains an somebody else will roll up deir sleeves an' support you, an' you gits de breast of de chicken, an' de heart of de pok chops, instid of bein' [illegible] of de do' lak you oughter be.

"An' you gits de best bed, an' de easiest chair, an' nobody don't dast 'sput you, no matter what you says, an' you takes de money to buy medicine dat ought to go for bread and meat fo' de family, an' all you do is dess to set on de invalid throne, an' hold up people, an' make 'em listen whilst you discourses about your symptoms. Ef dat ain't a cinch, den dis ole nigger don't know one, an' I only wishes dat I had had enough sense forty years ago to qualify in de ranks of dem what is invalids instid of learn'n' to be a number one wash woman.

"But bein' as how I'se been one of de wukkers instid of one of de complainers, I just wants to spressify de opinion dat dem ladies what is too feeble an 'weak to take care of deir chillun, but has got de strength to attend the bargain sales, an play cyards fo' hours at a stretch, will have to figger in a funeral befo' I sheds any tears over deir bad health.

"Yassum, hit sholy must be a mighty comfortable thing to be a invalid. An' it gives you a lot to talk about."

Was He?

The theatre was crowded from floor to ceiling on the night of the meeting of a famous local team and their equally well-known opponents, and, needless to say, the audience contained a sprinkling of football enthusiasts eager to witness a stirring melodrama. On the stage the hero, with faltering voice was denouncing the villain.

"How is it that this man persists in making foul charges, and always escapes the just penalty?"

Swift as thought a hoarse voice from the gallery bellowed forth:

"P'raps 'e's a pal o' th' referee, 'Enery!"

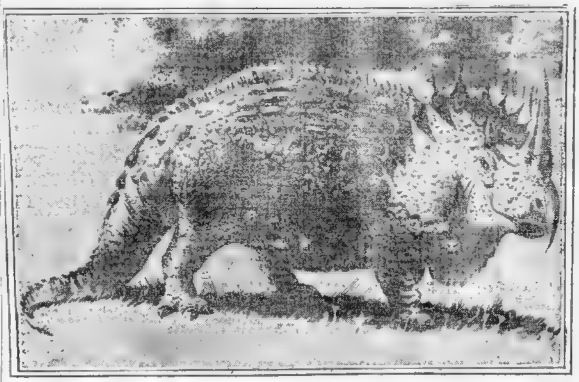
The Giants of Yesterday

No. 1 — Triceratops — By Garrett P. Serviss



THE TRICERATOPS, SO CALLED BECAUSE THIS MEANS "BEAST-WITH-THREE-HORNS."

YESTERDAY—the yesterday of geology—starts into life again in the astonishing animal park which Carl Hagenbeck has established near Hamburg, Germany.

Here, reproduced life-size in concrete, stand, run, swim, fight or tear their prey, the terrible animals who ruled the world before man, and continued to be its absolute masters for a period which may have been fifteen or twenty million years in length.

So long as only their skeletons were to be seen, set up in museums, these monsters did not appear either so dreadful or so wonderful, but now that science has learned how to reproduce their entire forms, they are seen to surpass all that the imagination could have invented.

On this page will be seen a photograph showing the armored monster called the Triceratops, which means the "beast-with-three-horns," and which when full grown was about twenty-five feet long.

The Triceratops was particularly abundant in Western America, during the Cretaceous Age, when a broad arm of the sea ran from the Gulf of Mexico, across Texas, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana, and far up into Western Canada. He dwelt along the margin of that shallow sea, and lived mainly on a vegetable diet. He waded in the water also, and may have devoured small marine animals.

A Wonderful Armor

But he had to fight for life and he was prepared for it. His enormous body was covered with a hide stronger than that of a rhinoceros, and studded with huge horny bosses, pointed like thick spikes. Three great horns projected from his head, which was FROM SIX TO EIGHT FEET LONG.

The most astonishing part of his armament, however, was the defensive shield, six feet or more in diameter, which encircled the back of his neck like a horney ruff, bordered with a row of sharp spikes. The heaviest rifle bullet would have been unable to penetrate this shield, and probably the sides of his great 25-foot body and tail were almost equally impenetrable. This shows how fearful must have been the power of his enemies, although much of his fighting was probably done with his own kind.

Professor Marsh believed that the Triceratops was an animal in which the development of defensive armor reached a point where it became an unbearable burden to the creature itself, interfering so much with its powers of locomotion that it could no longer successfully contend in the struggle for existence with animals less cumbrously constructed. It was a "Dreadnought" which attained a size and weight so great that it could hardly turn around and was continually getting itself entangled. Finally it disappeared from the earth, as the knights of the Middle Ages, with their heavy armor, disappeared when gunpowder and bullets took the place of spears, swords and muscular arms on the battlefield. Perhaps the fate of the Triceratops may be taken as a warning against pushing armored warships too far.

One can easily imagine the scene when a Triceratops fought, either with a bull of his own species or with some of the smaller and more active carnivorous, or flesh-eating animals of his time, which, there is reason to believe, often conquered and ate him in spite of all his wonderful armor. A pair of angry Triceratopses, rushing headforemost against each other, must have shook the ground like two locomotives meeting at full speed on the same track! Those mighty bones, horns, shields and masses of spike-covered flesh weighed tons upon tons, and the great saw-edged frills being once entangled, both of the fighters may have perished like ships lashed together.

A Dreadful Spectacle

But the battles with the smaller carnivorous animals, attacking these huge, unwieldy beasts like torpedo boats besetting a giant battleship, were doubtless spectacles still more dreadful to look upon. The immense spiked armor covering the vast back and the enormous tail, tells us, as plainly as if we could look upon the scene itself, that these enemies were accustomed to leap upon the Triceratops, seeking to bear him down with their numbers, and to rend his flanks in despite of their horny covering. The tail, which in itself must have weighed a ton or two, when flung about in rage and agony would have leveled small trees and bushes with every stroke.

In a later article we shall show a photograph of a restoration of one of the carnivorous, or flesh-eating monsters of that time, the dreadful Tyrannosaurus, but just now it is important to remark the part that BRAINS played, or rather failed to play, in the history of these wonderful creatures. Nature was making some of her first experiments on brains with them, and she seems not yet to have made up her mind as to the proper place to locate the brain. In some of the largest of them, which were sixty or seventy feet long and twenty five or thirty feet tall, the principal brain—and it was not much—was located in the middle of the backbone, WHERE IT COULD DO THE MOST GOOD, since its main function was to govern the movements of the immense body and tail. The pigmy brain enclosed in the great eight-foot skull was a secondary affair; and this may have been one reason why these creatures became extinct. They had not sufficient intelligence to adapt themselves to the changes going on around them, as the inland sea dried up and animals, with more brains in the head and less in the backbone, pressed them to the wall in the struggle for existence.

The earliest animals had nothing that could properly be called a brain; in the Triceratops and its fellows the brain was of increasing importance, but it took MILLIONS OF YEARS for nature to develop in some of the successors of these monsters, in the next age after theirs, A BRAIN ONE-EIGHTH AS LARGE AS THAT OF THE MODERN HORSE.

In the next article of this series we shall deal with the Stegosaurus, a creature that was, in some ways, even more extraordinary than the Triceratops.

Interesting Experience of Two Women—Their Statements Worth Reading.

Asheville, N.C.—"I suffered for years with female trouble while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your great medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance.

"If you think this letter will contribute anything towards further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N. C.

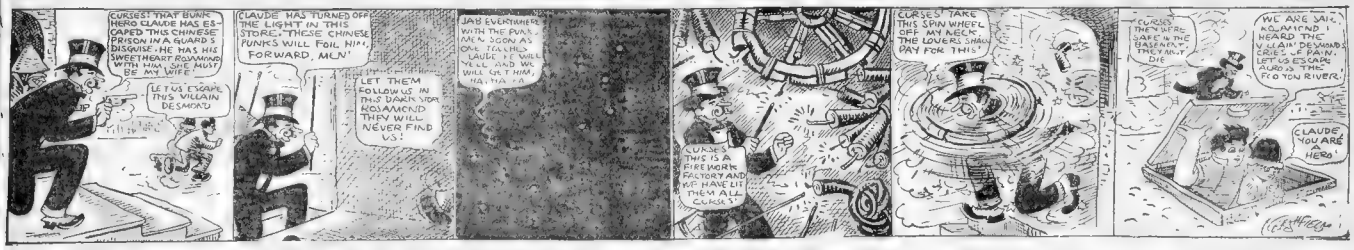
Desperate Desmond

In a Case of Fireworks Fighting Fire, the Villain Gets All the Worst of It

Copyright, 1912, by the National News Association

By Hershfield



I.—THE ESCAPE.
Having slipped out of the Chinese prison in the disguise of a jailer, Claude now abandons the costume and devotes his attention to getting Rosamond out of Desmond's reach. But that villain is wide awake and seeing the lovers escaping plans a pursuit that will bring them both into his power again. The advantage seems to be with the lovers, but we shall see.

II.—TURN OUT THE LIGHTS.
Quickly Claude sees a plan to evade Desmond's pursuit. He urges Rosamond to a place in a Chinese store, where he hopes conceal our hero. Claude remembers that by turning off all the lights save one the Chinese mob, which Chinese is a flaring sound, then a splutter, and the darkness. The brave girl rushes to its future as their conquerors. Desmond shocked with fireworks and the villain with Claude, and together they have the end has followers each take a burning lantern. Lights extinguished before Desmond can reach the door.

III.—LIFE SEARCH IN THE DARK.
Desmond instantly sees what Claude's hope is and orders a search for the lovers. He remembers that by turning off all the lights save one the Chinese mob, which Chinese is a flaring sound, then a splutter, and then a flare. Desmond is sure there is a way to escape with his punk stick, touches the burning hope to make Claude yell.

IV.—FIZZ! SPLUTTER! BANG!
Desmond, in his eagerness to burn Claude with his punk stick, touches the burning fuse of one of the shelves. Instantly there revolves around the villain's neck he is in a state of panic. He does not know how to get relief from the burning collar, but his hope is that Claude, too, is suffering from the blaze he has started.

V.—THE COLLAR OF FIRE.
Just as Desmond almost hopes to escape unscathed, a huge circlet falls around his neck. It is a blazing pinwheel, and as it revolves around the villain's neck he is in a state of panic. He does not know how to get relief from the burning collar, but his hope is that Claude, too, is suffering from the blaze he has started.

VI.—UNSCATHED!
"I'm the boss!" cries Desperate Desmond, "what I feel like, I singed out!" The villain beholds, to his chagrin, the lovers escaping from the cellar in which they remained unscathed while the fireworks blazed about them. Now he is more than ever determined to get Claude and put him out of the way. But he has not caught the hero yet, the chase will appear tomorrow.

A Story of Love, Mystery and Sorcery in the South Seas

-:- The Bird of Paradise -:-

Based on the Great Play Now Being Acted in New York

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

THE opening chapters of the story introduce a capitalist, Enoch Hirich, the owner of the sugar plantations in the Hawaiian Islands, especially in the Isle of Puna, one of the group, who frets because he cannot get the natives of Puna to give up their peaceful, happy way of living and give themselves over to the dusty grind and drudgery of the fields. He rejects the Rev. James Sysonby, an American missionary, because the latter with his wife has failed to force them to become work-a-day drudges. Then the story turns to Dr. Paul Wilson, a young graduate of Harvard Medical School, who takes up his mind to leave New York and go to Hawaii to try to destroy the bacilli of leprosy. His childhood companion, Diana Larned, wants to accompany him. They make up a party and depart for Hawaii; he in the aid of science, and she to study the native customs and superstitions. The scene then turns back to the Isle of Puna. In a cave at the side of a mountain Louna's guests are seated ready for a great feast in honor of her birthday. Makia, Lilika and Hopoe, Hawaiian belles, are there, and also old Mahumahu, Louna's nurse, and Konia, the old mother of Hopoe. Lemuele, Makia's sweetheart, arrives home from an American school. Makia takes a lei, or ring of flowers, and goes to put it around the young man's neck.

Now Go On With the Story

By J. W. M'CONAUGHY.

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

"ALOHA! Love to you!" she exclaimed. "And here is a lei."

Lemuele stepped back with a gesture of repugnance. "Ooh! You not want it?" asked the injured girl.

"Makia," he replied, grandly, "I have been to the big school in Honolulu. I have learned better things than the giving of silly flowers."

"Oh!" exclaimed the girl again.

"I am going to be a great man now," continued Lemuel. "Yes, maybe a politician. See! I wear an American hat!" And he took it off and twirled it proudly.

"Makia drew back a little and looked pathetically at the rope of gorgeous blossoms. "And this lei?"

"Ah, the lei!" His manner indicated lofty disdain. "It is foolish, but," he added condescendingly, "I will take it."

With a little cry of joy Makia took the lei and twined the flowers about the crown. Mahumahu called them and all took their seats about the mat.

"But where is Luana?" inquired Lemuele.

"Luana!" repeated Mahumahu. "Ah, it is fate for her to come forth from the grass home. The prayer is not said."

Before the Kanaka girl of Puna is recognized as a full-fledged woman the priest must make a prayer prescribed for that ceremony. At a certain from Mahumahu all talk ceased and there was a dead silence of several minutes. Then the deep voice of Hewahewa, quavering slightly with the weakness of old age, came out to them, intoning the prayer to Pele:

"Ua ia kua o ka maile."

All sat motionless, with bowed heads, while the prayer was repeated several times. Then the door of the grass-house slowly opened and old Hewahewa appeared. He was an eerie figure with his deep glowing eyes and long white hair and beard and his spare old body naked save for a breech-cloth. No one knew how old he was. He was believed to be the master of all the devil-work and magic of his craft and was treated with the profound respect that is born of deep fear.

It was known—but hardly ever even whispered—that he could launch the death-prayer that never failed to slay the victim of his wrath.

He paused in the doorway and slowly raised his hand in benediction.

"I—am not your father," declared the priest, solemnly. "Not my father?" echoed Luana in amazement. "No!" cried the priest. Then like a Herald, he added, "Princess Luana!"

"Noa makou, ko Kanaka," he said slowly. At the far end of the mat Kala raised his head and hand and echoed the words. Then the priest slowly turned to the interior and held out his hand.

The next instant the girl ran past him and out into the cave.

Luana Appears

"Ae! Ae! Luana! Aloha! Luana! Ae! Luana!" cried the guests again and again, the girl skipped gaily down to them throwing kisses with both hands.

She was a picture to arouse the enthusiasm of any audience. Her skin was the color of old ivory, and the smooth fullness of her rounded limbs and deep bosom and her lithe, pantherine movements told of perfect animal health. There was a faint touch of color in her cheeks and her big, black melting eyes sparkled with delight. Her even white teeth gleamed in a frame of coral red as she smiled at her people. Her nose black hair hung down among the flowers that hid her scant bodice.

Her arms were filled with flowers, woven in dancing leis, and flower chains bound the ankles below the short tapa skirt and grass-strung girdle.

"Aloha! Aloha nui!" she cried. Lemuele and old Konia rose and approached Luana and Konia rose and approached Luana and ran swiftly to the old woman and kissed her.

"Ah, Konia! So old, and yet you come to my feast!" she cried tenderly. "A lei for you! My best—my very best lei for you!" And she threw a gorget of flowers around Konia's neck. The old woman kissed her affectionately on the forehead.

"Ah, Luana!" she exclaimed softly.

"Ae! Lemuel," cried the girl, turning toward the embryo politician to his evident pride, "Back from Honolulu! Ah, it is fine you, too."

She threw one over his shoulders and he made not the slightest gesture of protest. Instead, he elbowed sweetly visibly among the American clothes. Luana turned away with a laugh to honor more of the guests as when the heavy voice of Hewahewa stilled the cries and laughter.

"Luana! Luana!"

"Ae!" replied the girl, instantly grave, as the old man advanced.

A little more, he said, heavily.

"Oh!" she gazed at him, gravely demure, her hands crossed before her. "But, father, you finished—"

"No, no!" interrupted the priest sternly. "It hurts me here!" He solemnly tapped his chest above his heart. "It hurts me here to say it, but I must! I must tell you here before your friends many things—things that I kept secret to this day."

He paused and rolled his eyes. His audience sat mute, breathless, expectant.

"—and not your father!" declared the priest solemnly. A gasp of surprise followed the words and the dark eyes were opened wide.

"Ae! Ae! Not her father!"

"Not my father!" echoed Luana, in amazement.

"No! For I," cried the priest, with proud humility, "I am but a priest of Pele." He paused, raised his hand and pointed to the girl. "Then, like a herald, he added, "Princess Luana!"

The sensation that followed this announcement must have satisfied the old priest's love of the dramatic. The guests sat dumb with amazement. They even forgot the feast.

"Princess! I, a princess!" exclaimed the girl, taking a step forward and bending toward the old man with an incredulous stare.

"Ae!" Hewahewa nodded solemnly. "The last of your family—the last of Kamehameha!"

"I! From the kings!"

"At Honolulu another sits on the throne of Hawaii," said the old man, as if repeating a mighty lesson. "But of the Great Conqueror who spread his rule over all these islands—you, only, are left, Luana!"

All but Makia, Lilika and Lemuele burst into shouts of joy and wonder.

"Ae! Ae! Luana! A princess! Kamehameha! Luana!"

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

COPPER SHARES MARKET ACTIVE; STEEL IN DEMAND

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, April 2—Midday—The Boston market opened firm with considerable activity in Arizona Commercial, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, Lake, Miami, Superior-Boston and Utah among the copper shares.

There was demand locally for U. S. Steel. By the end of the first hour Lake Copper was up 1-8, Arizona Commercial up the same, Shattuck 1 point higher and Giroux and advanced 1-16. Lake, Franklin and Calumet & Arizona were fractionally lower.

The New York market opened strong, with coppers and Steel taking the lead in an active market. Before noon Amalgamated had gained a shade.

The Copper Producers' Association will hold its next meeting on April 9, and the monthly statement will be issued the next day.

Coppers Active in New York.

Copper issues were active and conspicuous at the opening in New York, Anaconda making the greatest gain. It advanced 1⅝ to 44⅛. Amalgamated, which started unchanged, soon sold up ⅝, while American Smelting went ¾ higher. Steel common was bought so extensively in London today that it was boosted in New York. It opened ¼ higher, steel preferred started unchanged. Bethlehem Steel went up ¾ to 37¾.

The demand for Reading indicated that that stock is being accumulated and it stood up ⅜. The coal strike seemed to have been discounted so far as the stock market is concerned. Lehigh Valley went ⅜ higher, Erie common advanced ⅝, Union Pacific ¼, Pennsylvania ⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅜, Southern Pacific ⅝, and Canadian Pacific ⅜.

There was a firm tone to the Curb trading.

In London there was a boom in copper issues because of the rise in the price of the metal, and Rio Tintos sold up 1¾ to 78⅝. This is the highest price this issue has attained in the present upward movement. United States Steel was about the strongest of American stocks, but there was considerable support for American rails.

Owing to the small majority given by ballot in favor of ordering the coal strike, home rails reacted. But gilt-edged investments helped in easier money conditions were firmer.

Copper Metal at 16 Cents.

Now that copper has touched 16 cents a pound the opinion prevails in some quarters that a "runaway" market is probable and that the selling rate for the red metal will soon be announced regarding the situation reads:

"Should 16 cents a pound is the highest price established for copper in more than four years and is an advance of one-quarter cent a pound as compared with last week's final price. It is also one cent a pound over the goal of 15 cents that producers all over the world had in mind when they entered into a fairly agreement, more than a year ago to limit production to conform with the coal strike, since the vast amount of surplus metal on hand at that time.

"Producers say they have very little metal for delivery and that the present rise in prices and outward movement will undoubtedly result in still higher quotations.

"From another source comes the statement that exports of copper for March, 50,000 tons, are the largest on record, and sales at these figures were small."

Special cable to the Boston American:

Copper sold at 15⅝ cents yesterday, with the London market firmer, but there were no actual sales at that figure could not be obtained for less than 15¾ cents. Today the price is the equivalent of 16 cents, presumably as a result of the meeting of the directors of the Metal Exchange on Friday of the coal strike settlement. The Exchange will be closed on Good Friday and Easter Monday, but the markets are well stocked, and some of the large consumers, who have been unable to secure as much copper for earlier than July delivery are now willing to buy for nearby requirements. The Copper Producers statistics are expected on April 9, and the Exchange will be closed on that day. The decision at this juncture there is some disposition to make a bull movement, and the market is likely to go higher. Some bullish developments are also looked for during the week. Leading interests do not believe that the present strike will soon be expected to make up for the time lost.

When the London market opened today the copper was quoted at £79 7s. 6d., and futures at £71 5s., both being 5s. lower. The market began firm. It is called, but afterwards eased off.

The Cosmopolitan Trust Co.

The Cosmopolitan Trust Company, which opened its doors at No. 76 Devonshire street to the public yesterday, has taken possession of a new banking field in Boston, and one which is rapidly coming into this city because a cosmopolitan community is composed of all the peoples of the earth and one where all languages are spoken.

These newest Americans very frequently cannot speak English and have often suffered pitiable losses through entrusting their savings to persons with whom they could talk in their own tongue and who were unscrupulous. The thrifty among these folks from across sea needed what few savings banks can offer—a thoroughly reliable system of handling and of embodying comprehensive foreign exchange. This need is offered by the Cosmopolitan Trust Company together with absolutely secure depository for funds and a competent staff of interpreters. Sixteen different languages and dialects are spoken within its doors. It offers a system of foreign exchange and letters of credit which are based upon the experiences of many of the bank's staff while residents of foreign lands.

The Cosmopolitan Trust Company is an institution which will not only protect the interests of a class which is very much in need of protection because of a lack of knowledge of the English language and banking methods in this country, but it offers the best of banking facilities to business and professional men and to people in general. It has handsome, comfortable and well arranged quarters. It is an institution which is administered by men of high ability and sterling character.

AT THE

HENRY F. MILLER PIANO WAREROOMS

395 BOYLSTON ST.

WE OFFER an attractive line of pianos by various makers, carefully selected with a MANUFACTURER'S KNOWLEDGE of piano value. New pianos at

$125, $150, $175, $190, $200, $215, $225, $235, $255, $265, $275, $285 and $300

ON EASY INSTALMENT TERMS

$10 down and $5 per month (WITHOUT ADVANCING PRICES)

DO NOT sit at home and be "canvassed." Visit the different warerooms; investigate the "Piano-Club," "Certificate-Sale," "Puzzle-Contest" and all the other "schemes" that promise pianos at "half their real worth." Then come and inspect our offerings. You will find the pianos marked by us at from $175 to $255 are much better pianos in every way than the so-called "$350 or $400 piano" offered at great sacrifices (?) under the "scheme" plan. REMEMBER, our prices are free from "canvasser's" profits and, from what we observe many other piano dealers ASK for their goods, we honestly believe a visit to our warerooms is likely to save you $100 on your piano purchase. We earnestly suggest that you take a little time and see for yourself.

Established 1863—Always Reliable

AT THE
HENRY F. MILLER
PIANO WAREROOMS
395 BOYLSTON ST.

WE OFFER an attractive line of pianos by various makers, carefully selected with a MANUFACTURER'S KNOWLEDGE of piano value. New pianos at

$125, $150, $175, $190, $200, $215, $225,
$235, $255, $265, $275, $285 and $300

ON EASY INSTALMENT TERMS

$10 down and $5 per month (WITHOUT ADVANCING PRICES)

DO NOT sit at home and be "canvassed." Visit the different warerooms; investigate the "Piano-Club," "Certificate-Sale," "Puzzle-Contest" and all the other "schemes" that promise pianos at "half their real worth." Then come and inspect our offerings. You will find the pianos marked by us at from $175 to $255 are much better pianos in every way than the so-called "$350 or $400 piano" offered at great sacrifices (?) under the "scheme" plan. REMEMBER, our prices are free from "canvasser's" profits and, from what we observe many other piano dealers ASK for their goods, we honestly believe a visit to our warerooms is likely to save you $100 on your piano purchase. We earnestly suggest that you take a little time and see for yourself.

Established 1863—Always Reliable

HENRY F. MILLER & SONS PIANO CO.

Provide a Planning Board for Metropolitan Boston—It Would Be a DEFINITE STEP Toward the GREATER CITY That Is to Be

Just now when the best business and patriotic thought of Greater Boston is concentrated on the commercial expansion of this city—on the development of the port, the building of new railroads, the establishment of new steamship lines and the birth of other enterprises, the problem of uniting the cities and towns of the metropolitan area, so that in their union strength may be added to the general movement, demands prompt and earnest consideration.

Before the present Legislature—at present in the hands of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs—is a bill providing for a Metropolitan Planning Board. This board would take up the project of so welding together the elements of Metropolitan Boston that there would be substantial mutual benefit.

For instance, if Boston had had such a Planning Board many years ago there would not be on the city's hands at this time her NARROW, CROOKED, INADEQUATE STREETS and her PATCHWORK TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM.

It is to prevent such conditions in the future by supplanting HAPHAZARD GROWTH with a painstaking preparation for a development that shall be definitely determined in advance, that efforts are being made to secure the enactment of legislation creating a Metropolitan Planning Board.

Boston is preparing for more ships, more trade, more industry, more work for men to do and more men to do it. If properly planned this means the coexistent development of industry in every metropolitan city and town ready to receive it and the improvement of every residential locality ready to welcome it.

This planning would establish the relation between docks and highways and correlate inland transportation with transportation over the seas. It would have to do with parks, as related to the pleasure and health of the people; building laws as a protection to life and a preventative to slums; playgrounds as a safeguard of coming generations and other improvements that meant the GREATEST GOOD to the people.

The whole object of the Planning Board would be to attain the MAXIMUM PROSPERITY with the MINIMUM WASTE OF ENERGY AND THE PUBLIC FUNDS.

It is contemplated that thirty-eight cities and towns join in the federation, each city and town to be guaranteed in its local independence and all to work out common problems through a central cooperating Planning Board so that harmonious and mutually beneficial results may be attained.

The establishment of this Planning Board would be a DEFINITE STEP toward metropolitan development.

Don't forget that all these projects of development are the PEOPLE'S PROBLEMS. The Legislature meets at the State House to DO THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE.

Get after the Legislature. Get through the Planning Board. Bring the Grand Trunk to Boston. BOOST EVERY SENSIBLE PROPOSITION THAT MEANS THE COMMERCIAL GROWTH AND PROSPERITY OF BOSTON, THE STATE AND ALL OF NEW ENGLAND.

Grand Army Commander Trimble Commends AMERICAN'S Brady War Pictures

One thing that served to preserve bitterness over the great Civil War in this country was a difference as to the truth about what happened. It has been hard to get the facts about even one battle. Men saw it from different positions, different angles. They told different stories about it—TRUTHFUL STORIES, as they saw it. But the stories differed.

For fifty years the story of this great national tragedy depended upon the SIGHT and the MEMORY of the participants. The great art of photography, it was generally believed, had not been perfected to such a point as to be useful on the field of battle.

Then the remarkable fact blazed forth that PHOTOGRAPHS of the war had been taken and that the plates were safe in the hands of the government. The TRUTH beyond cavil could at last be told!

Brady's War Photographs are famous—really one of the greatest discoveries of the age. The AMERICAN is presenting this magnificent and invaluable collection of photographs to its New England readers at nominal cost. The details of the offer will be found in another part of the paper.

Judge Harvey M. Trimble of Illinois, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, while in Boston warmly commended the pictures. He praised the AMERICAN for its enterprise.

"I think," said Judge Trimble, "it is a commendable thing to put within reach of Civil War veterans, to whom they are of most vital interest, and of the general public, photographs that so graphically illustrate the great struggle. While to the present generation the photographs will be interesting, it is to the future generations that they will be of the greatest service."

Man's Idea of Honesty Is Not as Good as What He Terms "A Woman's Hypocrisy"

Her Ability to Smile Under Difficulties Which Cause Him to Display His Lack of Self-Control Is a Finer Quality

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

MAN, in his natural state, which is semi-savage, is not a social animal.

There is a period during the mating season when he assumes a taste for dances, late dinners, chafing dish suppers and bridge, but he quickly returns to the dislike of the savage for social amenities when he has secured his mate.

His dislike of all that is so dear to women is not based entirely on the late hours of society enfalls: He will sit up till past midnight with a book and a cigar, and make no complaint.

It is not entirely based on the mass of indigestible food served him. He will eat a meal at a restaurant that would worry the stomach of an ostrich, and pay the bill cheerfully.

It finds its origin in what he calls his honesty. He has patted a bald spot on his head because he is "not a hypocrite like the women." By which he means that he won't look pleasant when he doesn't feel like it.

And that is the secret of the dislike this semi-savage being entertains for all social gatherings: He doesn't want to look pleasant when he doesn't feel like it.

And being a natural-born grouch, he doesn't feel like it more than two hours a day.

A woman's shoes pinch: She smiles as if heaven had opened its doors.

Some one steps on her train. She looks as happy as if she were enjoying a full meal.

A bore monopolizes her: She smiles as sweetly and looks as entertained as though she had drawn the prize guest at the party.

She sees Mrs. Brown in a new gown. "Your dress," she says with every evidence of sincerity, "is a dream."

Her husband sees Mr. Brown in his new dress suit. "Where," he asks, "was the fire?"

The woman tried to be agreeable: The man didn't. The woman was a hypocrite; the man wasn't. With the conceit of self-righteousness, he holds that he is better than the woman.

He goes farther, and says he is better than all who are social successes. He calls all who smile when they are raging inwardly, "hypocrites," and wants to stay home where he won't have to meet them.

This is the excuse with which he deceives himself: The real reason is based on his nature, which is to let his troubles and his worries make a map of his face.

If he goes into society, he must say agreeable things, and he hasn't the self-control. He must wear a mask, and he refuses.

Five minutes after his arrival at a party, he hunts up his wife and says: "Isn't it time we were going home?" He served his time, he believes, when he was courting, and should be exempt now.

He kept his grouch in subjection in those days: He put it in a bucket, and bowed and danced on the lid. Now that he is married, he has jumped off the lid, removed it and let his grouch come forth.

He wants to be "natural." His definition of "home" is a place where a man has a right to look and act as he pleases; in other words, to be cross when he feels like it. That is why he wants to stay home when he gets there.

If this self-control of the woman is hypocrisy, it is not a bad sort. It is a finer quality than the lack of control exhibited by the men.

It is this ability to hide her feelings, to disarm a foe by smiling at him, that is making woman a success in the business world hitherto monopolized by man.

"WHAT makes that rich man hurry so?" said the newsboy-in-the-shade.

"To get ahead, to get ahead," the corner copper said.

"What makes him eat his lunch so fast?" said the newsboy-in-the-shade.

"To save his time, to save his time," the corner copper said.

"He's a-piling up the dollars and a-saltin' them away;
He's a-workin' like a cart-horse while his wife and daughters play;
He's workin' till he nearly drops so's he can rest some day,
And be hangin' round the golf course in the mornin'."

"WHY does the old hearse move so slow?" asked the newsboy-in-the-shade.

"It's got a load, it's got a load," the corner copper said.

"Who is the chap that's riding free?" asked the newsboy-in-the-shade.

"The wealthy chap that worked so hard," the corner copper said.

"He hustled in the mornin' and he hustled late at night;
His business grew so fast he had to work with all his might;
He thought he'd rest next year, but now his store is shut up tight,
And they're hangin' crape upon it in the mornin'."

Dr. Parkhurst's Article —ON— Futility of the American 'Hurry' —AND— What 'Ownership' Really Means

Written for the American by

Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

NO one comes into this city from outside, nor into this country from abroad, without settling it down as one of our distinguishing features, the frantic and hysterical hurry with which we do everything that we give our thoughts and hands to.

Now, candidly and seriously, what is there to show for it?

What advantage, for example, has it been to the world that the New York Central Railroad has reduced by 25 per cent. the running time between Boston and Chicago?

What profit is it to an apoplectic gentleman to rush up the elevated railway stairs, two steps at a time, to catch a train that is followed two minutes later by another that he can overtake composedly without risk of bursting a blood vessel?

It is not due to atmosphere, nor to enterprise, nor to the necessity of the case; it is simply a silly habit that we have fallen into; and now that we have acquired it it is difficult to break ourselves of it, exactly as it is in the case of any other of our habitual and harmful foolishnesses.

For it is harmful. Any performance is harmful that crowds us to a more rapid step than our constitution prescribes for us.

It is harmful to a beast of burden to be put at a quicker pace than that at which nature intended him to go.

Common Sense Tells Us High Train Speed Is Dangerous

It is harmful to the railway outfit to run more than so many miles an hour, saying nothing of the disaster it brings to passengers by breaking rails and jumping the track.

Experts have testified that danger is not increased by speed.

Common sense was created before expert sense.

We also are ourselves machines.

Physically we are machines that can be prudently run only at a certain velocity. And the same is true of us mentally.

Forced speed wears and wears out.

People carry a wearied look. Their faces look tired as we see them on the street, in the concert hall, at the church. They walk as though going to a fire even when they are on the way to a funeral. Nervous prostration, premature collapse, are synonyms for broken rail, hot-box, exploded boiler.

It is a holding up for repairs necessitated by overstrain of the machinery.

The observance of Lent is partly a religious arrangement and partly a sanitary one, availed of almost as much for physical and nervous recuperation as for spiritual.

And a pace more rapid than nature designed us to take is a slave's pace and one therefore that has no fun and no joy in it.

But that will afford us topic for another article.

IT is not strange that there is a good deal of discussion and quarreling about property and ownership, seeing that ownership is itself almost as much a matter of fiction as it is of fact.

It is probable that not one man in ten could give a definition of ownership that would perfectly satisfy himself or anybody else.

There are so many ways by which what we call ours slips out from under our control that owning a piece of property becomes an exceedingly shadowy and unreal sort of thing.

We Only Own Until Our Property Is Taken Away

Fire consumes; floods wash away; government condemns; assessors confiscate to cover tax arrearages; death appropriates without requital.

To own a thing is to possess it till something or somebody takes it away. That is about the size of it.

The Persians owned Persia till Russia and England became interested to extend their sphere of influence toward the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea.

The Poles owned Poland till the European Powers carved her into thirds, and distributed her among the vivisectors.

And the liability to be DISPOSSESSED of what we call ours is admirably matched by more or less of illegitimacy in the way by which we become POSSESSED of what we call ours.

The first step toward the purchase of a piece of landed property is to establish a title.

When nations capture outside territory they do not stop for that formality.

When the English wanted the Transvaal they took it.

When we wanted Panama we took it. It was simpler and saved the bother of searching titles. When, however, the purchase is made by individuals, formalities of procedure have to have more attention paid to them.

If I go about to buy a house I trace its ownership back through several generations and find the line of purchase and inheritance clear and distinct.

Titles Carried Back Far Enough Will Show Grabs

After a while matters become complicated and the atmosphere exceedingly hazy, till I arrive at the point where the property emerges as squatter-land that had been grabbed from the Indians.

That is where every "Abstract of Title," if pushed far enough back, terminates, viz, in a grab.

And we call our title a clear title, when the property which we possess has had so many possessors since the original grabber, that we forget to realize that it has ever been grabbed. This is an aspect of the question not often treated in essays on political economy.
